Big Army Plane Crashes In Illinois And Eight Killed

Farmer Sees Machine Fall in Flames, Strike Earth and Explode
Disaster Comes In Lightning Storm

DELAVAN, Ill. (AP)—A big United States army plane crashed in an electrical storm on a farm north of here today, killing its soldier crew of eight and throwing the bodies over a field.

Carey Youle said the craft plummeted to his father's farm, "exploded" as it struck the earth and bounced with terrific force. Wreckage was found scattered over a half-mile area.

Three of the bodies were partly opened parachutes, which Coroner Nelson A. Wright of Tazewell County said indicated the men had leaped from the plane, but at too low an altitude for the parachutes to be effective. Two parachutes were charred and burned.

ON WAY TO DENVER

The ship, stated to be a Douglas B-18, carrying three officers and five enlisted men, had left the Chanute army field at Rantoul on a flight to Lowry field at Denver Colo., which officers described as "routine."

Those killed were: Capt. Richard B. Reeve, 26, Waukegan, Wis.; First Lieut. Norman H. Ives, 31, Los Angeles; Second Lieut. Thomas Langben, 27, Galveston, Tex.; Staff Sgt. Edward F. Murah, Corp. William J. Housley, Private Phillip J. Truitt, Private Max W. Myser and Private George L. Huntsman.

Lieut. O. E. Henderson at Rantoul said all belonged to the U.S. Air Corps technical school at Lowry field. The school formerly was at Rantoul, but was transferred to Denver February 10, at which time the three officers and Murah, Myser and Huntsman were also transferred.

Housley and Truitt, he said, had been transferred in February from Langley field at Hampton Roads, Va. Capt. Reeve graduated from the flying school at San Antonio, Tex., in 1926, Ives in 1928 and Langben in 1933.

Lieut. Henderson said First Lieutenant Ives was piloting the ship when it crashed from a height of 6,500 feet, with Langben acting as co-pilot.

"Our last radio communication was sent to the ship at 10.05 a.m., about the time the crash came," (Turn to Page 2, Col. 7)

PREPARED FOR PLANT ACTION

City in Position to Receive B.C. Electric Proposal on Goldstream Plant

The city will be prepared for any proposal submitted to it by the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Ltd., on the expiry of its agreement on the Goldstream hydro-electric plant June 30, Mayor Andrew McGavin stated today as he awaited the arrival in Victoria this afternoon of R. W. Beck, public utilities expert and electrical engineer.

Two engineers employed by Mr. Beck have been working steadily on outlines submitted by him on his last visit about four weeks ago.

The mayor said today he would call the council together in franchise committee as soon as he had determined what action Mr. Beck wished to pursue. Whether or not there would be a meeting on Monday had not been decided today.

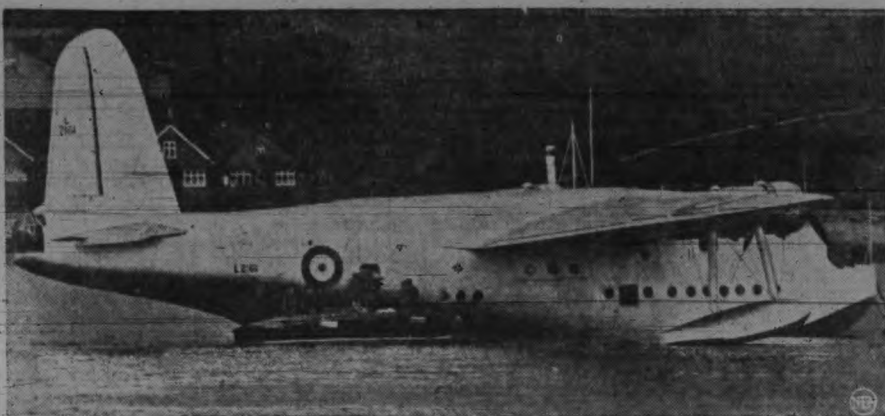

The city, the mayor stated, was somewhat puzzled by the delay on the part of the power company in presenting a proposal on the Goldstream plant question. The present agreement expires at the end of this month. Under clauses of the contract, the company can request the city to take over the plant.

Precautions Taken In Czechoslovakia

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Czechoslovakia maintained vigilant and large-scale precautions to preserve order today as the last of three municipal election week-ends approached.

Military arrangements were as thorough as those for the balloting May 22 and May 29 when the government called up reserves and kept troops on the German border as the result of dangerous incidents between Czechoslovak soldiers and citizens and the Sudeten German minority.

Britain's Flying Dragon Has Sting in Its Tail

Carrying a naval-type revolving gun turret, in the after end, the "Sunderland," Great Britain's newest aerial battleship is pictured above. When the photo was taken the craft was being made ready for its trial flight over the Medway at Rochester, Eng. First military flying boat to be so equipped, the "flying dragon" is capable of making 3,000-mile trips carrying guns and bombs. It is planned the machine will make a demonstration flight to Singapore carrying a crew of six.

Moves to Stop Air Piracy At Spain Ports Expected

As Francoist Raids on Ships Continue, Britain and France Discuss Steps

LONDON (CP-Havas)—Parliamentary circles reported today Prime Minister Chamberlain may call a special Saturday meeting of the cabinet to consider the international situation.

Next week it will be necessary to explain to Parliament what action the government plans to take in view of the repeated bombing of British ships in Spanish waters. No confirmation of the cabinet meeting report could be obtained, however.

Official inquiries today were understood to have shown the British ships bombed by insurgent aircraft in Spanish waters were engaged in legitimate business.

Most of them carried observation officers of the Nonintervention Committee, which in itself indicates they were not running contraband as defined by the nonintervention agreements.

It is held here deliberate attacks on merchant shipping are in violation of international law.

FRENCH CO-OPERATION

Georges Bonnet, French Foreign Minister, was reported to have told Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador in Paris, that France was willing to co-operate with London in "extreme measures" to combat the Mediterranean air pirates who have sunk or damaged at least 15 neutral ships in two weeks.

Sir Eric was believed to have reported to London that M. Bonnet was indignant at the attack yesterday on the French freighter Brisbane at Denia, in which seven persons were killed and eight wounded.

RAIDS TODAY

MADRID (AP)—A lone insurgent air-raider, flying an Italian-made Savoia, seaplane, again bombed Alicante, Denia and the British company-owned port of Gandia today. The British freighter Thorpehall, bombed three days ago at Alicante, again was struck and started sinking stern first.

The civilian section of Alicante, which previously had suffered one of the worst bombardments of the war from a fleet of insurgent air raiders, again was battered.

VIENNA (AP)—State police today announced confiscation of the property of Austrian Catholic student organizations, which an official estimates valued at $1,200,000.

This followed formal dissolution last night of more than 20 Austrian student societies.

Japanese Economize For War on Lunches

TOKIO (AP)—As a means of saving time and money, government employees are being urged to eat homemade lunches in their offices.

Sit-Down Now In Fourth Week

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver's single unemployed sit-down strikers at 2.30 p.m. today completed their third week of occupation of the fine Art Gallery and the central post office.

On May 20 five divisions of the unemployed men, 1,500 strong, marched through downtown streets and before police were aware of their intention had occupied these two buildings and the Georgia Hotel lobby.

Those occupying the hotel were induced to vacate the building after several days when the city gave them $500 to do so.

Japanese Cut China Railway

Peiping-Hankow Line Broken South of Yellow River

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese cut the Peiping-Hankow railroad for the first time south of the Yellow River Friday and launched an attack on Chengchow, against feeble resistance as their drive inland through the heart of China gained momentum.

Chengchow is the junction of the Peiping-Hankow, main link between Hankow, China's provisional capital, and the central front, and the east-west Lunghai railroad, the western end of which the Japanese already have captured.

Hankow-Chengchow traffic was halted when a Japanese raiding column blew up a bridge south of Chengchow.

Chinese bombing planes sank a Japanese warship at Kweichow, in the Yangtze River, a Chinese communiqué reported. It said an air squadron attacked the Japanese ship in the Yangtze. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

HEALTH PLAN CHANGES SEEN

Insurance Commission Head, Back From Europe, to Make Report

Revamping of the B.C. Health Insurance Act is expected in provincial circles following the return to Victoria yesterday of Dr. Allon Peebles, chairman of the Health Insurance Commission, from a two-months' tour of Europe.

Dr. Peebles studied the administration of health insurance plans in England, France, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Norway and Denmark.

"Health insurance works well in Europe," he said. "You couldn't blast it out with dynamite."

Dr. Peebles said he had gathered some valuable information on the workings of these schemes that could only be gained at first hand. He will place this before the government and the Health Insurance Commission in due course.

Working on this date, the government is expected to consider redrafting the British Columbia act which was proclaimed in operation early last year then held up when the medical profession declined to accept it.

Subsequently a plebiscite was taken in June last year when a majority of voters declared themselves in favor of a "comprehensive scheme of health insurance progressively applied."

In most circles this is construed to mean a system of insurance applied to one area at a time or in certain occupations until eventually the whole province is covered.

Dr. Peebles said he was not at liberty to discuss any of these points.

MAN BURNS SELF CRITICALLY

SEATTLE (AP)—A man police identified as A. Guilmotte, 46, was burned critically at his home today after he had poured gasoline on his clothing and touched a match to it. Firemen smothered the flames and he was taken to a hospital, where Dr. L. R. Hutchins said he was not likely to live.

WAGE ACTION AT MONTH-END

Restorations to Be Made to City Employees; Special Cases Reviewed

Civic salaries will be restored to their pre-depression levels at the end of this month, and special cases not covered in the restoration of 8 per cent will be given attention, Mayor Andrew McGavin stated today.

The council, in the budget, made provision for the restoration starting at the beginning of July, but the plan appeared in jeopardy when the city's financial structure became doubtful following the challenge of the refunding act.

Certain employees who were not affected by the cuts, but who have made pleas for higher salaries, will also secure increases, the mayor indicated.

Alderman John A. Worthington, special wage committee chairman, will be out of Victoria until June 28, but his group has already had two meetings on the wage question, and is expected to have its report, complete with recommendations, ready for the council's approval by the beginning of next month.

Tickets Stated Faked In B.C.

BOSTON (AP)—Postal inspectors reported today they had seized more than 1,000 books of tickets on the October Irish Sweepstakes, and that they were investigating reports a depot for distribution of "fake" tickets had been set up in Vancouver.

The inspectors said they were not only keeping a close watch on mail from Ireland, but also on mail from Canada.

The depot for distribution of fake tickets, they said they were advised, was located in a Vancouver hotel.

Commons Speeds To End Session

To Sit Wednesday Nights; Prorogation May Come Before July 1

OTTAWA (CP)—Indicating an effort to speed up parliament for prorogation, possibly by the end of this month, Prime Minister King gave notice in today's Commons votes and proceedings of a motion to have the House sit every Wednesday night until the end of the session. The Commons normally does not sit Wednesday nights.

Notice of a resolution, preliminary to a bill to implement the findings of the Commons banking and commerce committee, which reviewed the small loan business, appeared in today's votes and proceedings in MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover announced today Franklin Pierce McCall, 21, had confessed the entire Jimmy Cash kidnapping and that he had killed the five-and-a-half-year-old boy.

The director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said the admission of the truck driver detailed that he stole the boy from his bedroom in the family home at Princeton while he slept on the night of May 28, placed a handkerchief over the child's mouth and another over his eyes, and took "Skeegie" to his home, where he found the boy was dead.

McCall, who is a minister's son, had no confederates at any stage of the case, Hoover reported.

THOUGHT CHILD ASLEEP

McCall said he thought at first the boy still was asleep, Hoover declared, but when he found after about 15 minutes he was dead, he took the child in his arms and ran and walked to a spot in the woods near his home with which he was well acquainted from hunting trips.

There he flung the body into a dense thicket, where it was found early yesterday morning.

Having disposed of the body, Hoover continued, McCall returned to his own home to get the first of three ransom notes which he had written in advance.

Then, despite the death of the little victim, he took it to the shack of a negro, John Emanuel. Disguising his voice, McCall tried to persuade the negro to take it to James Bailey Cash Sr. When Emanuel became frightened and fled, McCall placed it under his door.

Then he deposited the second at the home of R. A. Cash, the little victim's uncle, and returned to his own place. He calmly read a magazine until cries of alarm told him the Cash boy had been missed.

WRITES EIGHT PAGES

Hoover said McCall in his eight-page written confession, gave as his reason for perpetrating the crime the explanation he wanted some of the better things of life for himself and his wife.

State Attorney George Worley said McCall might be charged with both the murder and kidnapping of the boy.

Although no formal charge had been entered against the 21-year-old truck driver today, Worley said he would present evidence to a special grand jury next Monday on which it might indict McCall for the two crimes, both capital offenses in this state.

Worley said he hoped to bring the case to trial speedily, possibly within four or five weeks. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

ELECTION NEWS DELAY SOUGHT

Commons Committee Would Bar Eastern Reports Till Western Polls Closed

OTTAWA (CP)—The special House of Commons committee on electoral matters today unanimously adopted a motion favoring the publication of any federal election results until the polls have closed in all parts of the Dominion.

The committee agreed it was wrong that western Canada voters going to the polls could vote with the knowledge of what the trend of results in eastern Canada indicated.

There were several suggestions as to how the recommendation could be made effective. The chief ones were:

1. Extension of polling hours in eastern Canada.
2. Delaying of counting in eastern Canada.
3. Making it an offence to communicate the result of the vote at any poll until all polls in Canada were closed.

John R. MacNicol, Conservative, Toronto-Davenport, who brought the question before the committee, said there should be some way of preventing voters in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia being influenced by Maritime Province results. He suggested the Maritime polls might be closed an hour later and the western polls an hour earlier.

SEES DIFFICULTIES
Chairman Charles Bothwell Liberal, Swift Current, Sask., said it might be made an offence under the Election Act to publish any results in any province until the polls in that province are closed. He foresaw trouble if election officials were required to withhold results until an hour that would be uniform over Canada.

"If we had six or seven candidates, each with two scrutineers, we just couldn't compel secrecy as to the result at polls for a couple of hours after voting ended," he said.

Hon. Hugh A. Stewart, Conservative, Leeds, Ont., said the principle of the secrecy of the ballot was firmly established. It would be an extension of this principle if results were required to be withheld until polls were closed all over Canada.

INCIDENT IN 1930
Hon. Grote Stirling, Conservative, Yale, said that in 1930 a newspaper in Vancouver at three in the afternoon, three hours before the polls closed in British Columbia, published stories concerning New Brunswick results. Undoubtedly the vote in Vancouver and district was influenced.

"It is worse today because of broadcasting," he said. "Details of how to prevent the news being spread will be difficult."

James G. Turgeon, Liberal, Cariboo, said: "I would give a great deal to remedy the situation. There is an unfairness, but I can't see what Parliament can do that won't rankle as an injustice in the minds of the people."

ABERHART ROUT HAS AUTONOMY BEARING

Canada than the frequent disallowance by the federal authority of provincial measures with which it may happen to disagree.

"While the Alberta Legislature has by extreme measures furnished argument for remedial action, we have no guarantee that authority in the wider federal field may not also run amuck. It would seem, therefore, that we are likely to better retain balance and equilibrium as a whole through recognition and respect of jurisdictions with a minimum of interference."

"Neither good nor bad laws can make for a happy body politic unless there exists a spirit of good will and co-operation."

SOCIAL CREDIT VIEW
OTTAWA (CP)—John H. Blackmore, Social Credit leader in the House of Commons, said today on his return to Ottawa from the prairies that the Social Credit movement made a "marvellously fine showing" in last Wednesday's Saskatchewan election.

"Certainly no sane Social Credit movement would want to take the responsibility for Saskatchewan in her present financial and economic condition and then have the same treatment meted out to her that Alberta has suffered," he said in a prepared statement. "I can hardly think of a more effective way of discrediting the movement."

Angus MacInnis, C.C.F., Vancouver East, one of the few C.C.F. federal members who remained in Ottawa during the campaign, said he considered the result "particularly satisfactory for it confirmed the position of the C.C.F. as the third political party in Canada."

He said he felt the defeat of Social Credit meant the return to sane political progress.

ABERHART STATEMENT

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Aberhart, who returned last night from Saskatchewan, where he led the Social Credit forces in the province's general election campaign, said today in a prepared statement he was "somewhat disappointed with the final result of the Social Credit effort in Saskatchewan."

Reviewing a summary of the election results, Mr. Aberhart said, "We are told the Liberal government has at the present only 36 members instead of 50 which it had last election. That cannot hardly be said to be a real victory. Furthermore, they did not secure 50 per cent of the votes east."

MOVES TO STOP AIR PIRACY AT SPAIN PORTS ARE EXPECTED

about midnight, destroyed the main warehouse of the British company-owned port and sank a small Spanish coastal schooner.

At Denia, he returned to the attack on the French freighter Brisbane and dropped two bombs aboard the crippled ship. The Brisbane, smoldering on the beach since incendiary bombs had set her ablaze yesterday, filled rapidly and settled to the bottom. Seven persons were killed in the first attack on the Brisbane, but no new reports of casualties followed the latest raids, which started about 10.30 last night.

Two bombs made direct hits on the two-masted Spanish schooner at Gandia today, blowing her apart. Three hundred and ninety feet of the principal warehouse was razed.

THREE DUDS
Edwin Apfel, manager of the company operating Gandia, said the whole harbor works would have been blown to bits if three of the largest bombs had not been duds. He said he was certain it was the same phantom raider who had attacked the port before.

The flier stayed but 10 minutes, swooping and diving and repeatedly machine gunning the whole port.

Residents of the tiny village of Grau Gandia, nearby, fled to the fields, threw themselves flat on the ground and watched the methodical destruction.

The British cruiser Penelope was put into Gandia tomorrow to investigate the attacks there. The lone raider, credited by dispatches from the coast with much of the recent destruction on land and sea, was believed to be operating either from Palma, in the Balearic Islands, or from a Mobile base at sea.

An earlier Canadian Press dispatch today said that the British Government, fully backed by France, was concentrating on finding practical means of stopping Spanish insurgent raids on Anglo-French shipping.

Britons were shocked by the series of attacks reported yesterday, including the machine-gunning of the British freighter Stanray.

Adding to concern in London, the French Foreign Minister was said to have told the British ambassador he considered the Spanish problem "urgent," especially since Czechoslovakia's final municipal elections Sunday held promise of a dangerous week-end in Europe.

MAJORITY IS 46

REGINA (CP)—Recheck of the figures in Melville constituency today gave F. J. Herman, Social Credit, a majority of 46 over Hon. C. M. Dunn, Minister of Highways, in the Saskatchewan general election. Election of Mr. Herman was conceded election night and so far no decision has been made as to petition for a recount by Mr. Dunn's agents.

CONFESSION ENDS FLORIDA KIDNAP HUNT

MONEY RECOVERED

McCall, who was taken into custody some days ago, had confessed collecting the $10,000 ransom after writing the three notes demanding it. The money was recovered, but it was not till today he admitted the kidnapping. McCall and his wife lived for a couple of months harvesting seasons in an apartment in the Cash home at Princeton. Neighbors said the husky McCall frequently played with the Cash lad.

TWO IN COLLAPSE

McCall's father-in-law, Joseph Hilliard, said Mrs. McCall was prostrated—and McCall had acknowledged to her his part in the case yesterday when she and other members of the Hilliard family were questioned at the F.B.I. office and released.

At Princeton, the parents prepared to bury their only child, whose body was found early yesterday 12 days after he was stolen from the Cash home.

CHILDREN SHOW SPOT

PRINCETON, Fla. (AP)—A group of enterprising boys set up an information bureau here today for sightseers visiting the scene of the Cash kidnapping.

Their office was a card table beneath a beach umbrella in a vacant lot. A sign tacked to a telegraph pole offered "Information. Full details 10 cents." Among the juvenile guides was the Oliver Cash, a cousin of the kidnap victim.

Indian Buffalo Hunt Opposed

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—The New Mexico Association on Indian Affairs condemned today a proposed buffalo hunt in which redskins, armed only with bows and arrows, would pursue shaggy bison to entertain rodeo spectators.

The organization said the hunt would be "exploiting the Indians for profit, and an inhumane practice that would make pin cushions of the buffalo."

Organize Former Canadian Scots

All ex-members of the 16th Battalion C.E.F. in Victoria and neighborhood are asked to attend a meeting to be held in the Armories next Tuesday evening at 8 with a view to organizing a branch of the 16th Battalion C.E.F. (the Canadian Scottish) in this city.

The meeting is being called upon urgent request of the active branches across Canada. The temporary committee for organization purposes consist of Col. Urquhart, Col. Lorne Ross, Col. J. R. Kingham, Major Stewart Robertson, Capt. James Dewar, N. Wilson and B. T. Hill.

Branches of the 16th Regimental Association have been active for a number of years in Toronto, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw and Vancouver.

The Canadian Scottish Regiment is the perpetuating unit of the 16th Battalion C.E.F. A branch of the 16th Regimental Association should be active in the Dominion, be active in Victoria, and on Vancouver Island.

BIG EXPLOSION IN VANCOUVER

Man Burned Seriously As Blast Does $100,000 Damage to Electrical Plant

VANCOUVER (CP)—An explosion and fire in the Boulton Limited electrical shop here today seriously burned George Bunn, 25, of nearby Marpole, B. C., and caused damage to the shop and contents estimated at $100,000.

Basil Daines, show service manager, said he heard an explosion and rushed to the door of the electrical shop in time to see Bunn staggering out, his clothes a mass of flames.

Hospital authorities later reported the injured man's condition only fair. Cause of the explosion was not determined.

Daines tried unsuccessfully to extinguish Bunn's burning clothing by wrapping him in coats.

Harry Marshall, in the tire department at the time of the explosion, helped Daines carry the injured man to the street.

Jack Kluscheil, in the electrical department with Bunn, escaped uninjured.

The flames spread to the firm's garage, badly damaging that department and destroying six automobiles. The tire department was also badly damaged.

Daines suffered burns on his hands and William Jesson was burned about the face when he attempted to remove an automobile from the burning garage. He was released from hospital after treatment.

NANAIMO—Support for the provincial forestry branch's policy of forest conservation was expressed by speakers who followed E. C. Manning, chief forester, at the meeting last night of the Nanaimo District Fish and Game Protective Association.

Mayor Victoria B. Harrison, Hon. N. W. Whittaker, K.C., Speaker of the Legislature; W. W. R. Mitchell, president of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island, and R. H. Ormond, president of Nanaimo Board of Trade, who pledged themselves in favor of a program to perpetuate the forest crop.

A. Bailey, president of the fish and game association, and inspector Butler of the game board spoke on the urgency of forest conservation if the island is to continue as a sportsmen's paradise.

HONGKONG (AP)—Japanese bombing planes Friday night rounded out two weeks of daily bombardments of Canton or its environs with an attack on the outskirts of the teeming south China metropolis.

The raiders withheld their bombs when they passed over congested areas, but the distant thunder of bombing showed they attacked the fringes of Canton, where the waterworks and other utility plants are located.

A delayed report on an attack Thursday night showed a new power plant under construction was nearly destroyed. The waterworks also was damaged, causing a sharp curtailment in the supply and acute suffering in the sweltering city.

LOAN PROPOSED

LONDON (CP-Havas)—A British-guaranteed loan to China was urged today by the London Daily Herald, Labor.

"Ten thousand men, women and children have been killed in Canton," the editorial said. "This horror must be stopped. It could be if China had more money for defence. A British government-guaranteed loan would make that possible. Write or wire your M.P. insisting his influence is used on the side of human decency."

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, leader of war-torn China, on Friday called on friendly powers "to fulfill their treaty obligations by giving China positive assistance."

Chiang made the plea in a formal statement issued at Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, as his people fled before the invading Japanese, evacuating their homes in three cities in one of the greatest mass exoduses in recent history.

Rocks and Ashes From Volcano

LEGASPI, P.I. (AP)—Mount Mayon, renewing its violent eruption, hurled giant rocks, ashes and smoke over Albay Province late today in the volcano's eighth day of activity. Many refugees remained in concentration camps and relief work improved.

Portland Hotels Restore Service

Many Non-union Workers Answer Call as Strike Continues

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Striking workers sought today to enforce a labor boycott against eight major Portland hotels, while union officials indicated the walkout might spread to others in the city.

Nearly 2,000 hotel workers who walked out Wednesday were supported in their strike today by the Drivers' Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Deliveries to hotels were ordered stopped.

Building trades workers, engineers, laundry workers and taxicab drivers were instructed to stay away from the picketed buildings.

Hotel service, meantime, returned to near normal conditions, with non-union workers flocking to answer advertisements for help.

Old employees were not asked to return in some cases. In others they were told jobs awaited them if they tore up their union cards.

Officials of five unions involved called the strike to force recognition. Hotel men had demanded a city-wide vote to determine the bargaining agency.

NO TRACE OF MISSING GIRL

Police End Ymir Search For Lajeunesse Infant; Leave It to Detectives

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia police here today said the four-day search for missing Carmella Lajeunesse was "at an end and the rest must be pure detective work."

Officers said they were working on a "new angle," but declined to disclose what that "angle" was. They said that so far they had not found any trace of the 19-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lajeunesse, who wandered away from nearby Ymir, B.C., last Monday.

COUPLE INTERVIEWED

Investigators said they had interviewed a German couple on a road near Ymir. They stated the two said they had seen a "couple" in a car stop on the road, and thought they had heard a child cry out.

Police said the German couple did not connect the cry with the disappearance of Carmella until it was suggested to them.

The officers, however, said they did not consider that clue of much value, since the automobile would have had to return almost to Ymir from the Ymir Yankee Girl Mine to get to the spot where it was reported seen.

Carmella was playing on a slag pile at the Ymir Yankee Girl when she was missed by her father. Yesterday police said they had found a man's handkerchief, stained with blood, on a mountain trail near the mine.

Staff Sergeant C. G. Barber told interviewers then that there was "more to this case than appears on the surface." He did not clarify his statement.

FUNERAL AT LADYSMITH
VANCOUVER (CP)—The body of John George Telford, 36, will be forwarded to Ladysmith, B.C., for burial. He died here yesterday.

Stelphenson, all of Chanute Field, left for the scene.

Coroner Wright said the mishap occurred about 11.15 a.m., just as a thunderstorm broke.

State police, sheriff's deputies and the coroner arrived, barring spectators from the immediate scene.

The bodies were taken in a lumber wagon to a Delavan undertaker's place.

Carey Youle said all were dead when he reached the wreckage. Part of one wing was found a half mile from the main wreckage.

"I first heard the ship without seeing it," Youle said. "It must have been above the clouds. The storm was gathering then, and I searched the sky."

"There was lightning and rain. I got my team and started out of the field toward the house. Then I saw a sheet of flame shooting toward the earth. The ship dropped. I couldn't see any men jumping."

"It hit with heavy force about a half mile from me. Then came the explosion. The plane bounced high. Parts of it flew everywhere. It came down again with terrific force. It settled on top of a knoll in the open field."

Youle said he started for the crash. A small fire still burned in the wreckage, he said.

"One man, wearing a parachute, was still in the wreckage. Other bodies in uniforms, badly mangled, were scattered all over the place. All wore parachutes. Two or three of these chutes were opened; and two or three were charred and burned. It appeared these men had leaped trying to save themselves, and the chutes caught fire as they left the ship."

"I quickly saw all the men were dead. I rushed back to the house a half mile away, and called the sheriff."

CHURCH URGES SEX TEACHINGS

NEW YORK — Sex instruction in Sunday schools was recommended in the pre-convention report of the committee on moral and social welfare of the United Lutheran Synod of New York. More stringent marriage requirements also were suggested.

The report will be acted on at the 10th annual convention to be held in Rochester, N.Y., at the Church of the Reformation from June 13 to 16.

These five items, contained in the report, will be discussed:

Approval of the law requiring Wasserman blood tests of all applicants for marriage certificates.

Recommendation that the state also require psychiatric examination to prevent marriage of the abnormal and unfit.

Recommendation that the seminaries introduce courses on sexology and psychiatry, the lecturers to be trained men.

Recommendation that the clergy instruct prospective bridegrooms in matters of sex, particularly with its relation to society and personal happiness.

Recommendation that all Sunday schools conduct sex instruction in classes from 14 to 16, with parents' approval, instructors to be Christian physicians of both sexes.

Four states are included in the New York Synod — New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

M.P.'s Learn How Bennett Was Advised in 1935 On Outlays on Roads

OTTAWA (CP)—A return of all correspondence and documents in relation to construction of the Piney-Morden-Sprague and Brandon-Clear Lake highways in Manitoba between August 20, 1935, and October 15, 1935, was tabled in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by Hon. Norman Rogers, Labor Minister. A. L. Beaubien, Liberal, Provencher, Man., had asked for the return.

Under an agreement dated September 20, 1935, the federal government agreed to pay half of a sum exceeding $1,200,000 for the construction of the roads and bridges, the province to pay the other half.

A letter addressed to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, then Prime Minister, dated August 23, 1935, from R. H. Webb, director at Dominion Conservative headquarters, province of Manitoba, was included in the file.

He said in part: "I have just come from the constituencies of Lisgar, Provencher, and St. Boniface particularly, and the situation at the moment is very good there politically, but it needs the necessary impetus to carry on."

Mr. Webb urged the construction of roads in those constituencies and continued: "As a political measure, it assures us without any question of a doubt these three seats, which we badly want to win, and which look very good for us at the present time."

Farm Debt Act For The Prairies

Senate Proposes to Commons Adjustments Be Limited to Two Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal to kill the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act at the end of this year, except in Saskatchewan and Alberta, will come before the House of Commons shortly. The act, passed in 1934, was designed to give farmers relief from oppressive debt burdens.

The proposal was endorsed in the Senate last night when the members defeated by a vote of 33 to 13 an amendment moved by Senator J. W. de B. Farris, Liberal, Vancouver. The amendment would have canceled action of the Senate banking committee which Wednesday added a clause to the bill setting forth that, except for Saskatchewan and Alberta, no new proposals would be considered under the act after December 31, 1939.

The Senate then gave third reading to a government bill, originated in the House of Commons, which makes several technical changes in the act.

In a busy day the Senate, besides giving its final decision on the F.C.A. amendment, rejected a resolution which would have divested it of divorce-granting powers and gave third reading to the government bill making $30,000,000 available for loans to municipalities for self-liquidating works. It also gave third reading to a government bill setting up a $350,000 revolving fund to be loaned to Indians to buy cattle and farm implements.

Senator Arthur Meighen, speaking on the Indian measure, said the government would be lucky to get back any of the money lent to Indians. He told of cases where cattle had been furnished Indians and had been eaten. Bulls later had been found being used as oxen and many had been killed.

Alaska Highway Commission Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt assured Representative Magnuson, Democrat, Washington State, during a White House conference yesterday the Alaska highway commission would be appointed some time this summer.

The commission will consist of a congressman, a resident of Alaska and three citizens of the United States.

Its purpose will be to formulate plans for construction of a highway running from Seattle, through British Columbia, and the Yukon to Alaska, and to negotiate with any similar body named in Canada.

The project has been the subject of discussions between President Roosevelt and Premier Pattullo of British Columbia.

The cost has been variously estimated at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

Atheistic Drift Seen in Quebec

NAPANEE — Sending of evangelists into Quebec, where he alleged thousands of people are drifting towards atheism, was urged before the 14th Bay of Quinte conference by Rev. Dr. J. U. Tanner.

"The people are turning away from both churches, Protestant and Catholic," Dr. Tanner told almost 500 United Church ministers. "They are gathering in clubs, trying to find something as a substitute for God."

"There is no use believing that Communism and Fascism are not gaining a foothold in Quebec. The Padlock Law would not have been passed if such were not the case. These are the things that ejected the church from Mexico, Russia and Spain, now in the throes of a bloody revolution."

"A great many people think the church is a huge racket," he stated. "They are not atheists, but simply anti-clerics, letting the whole religious system go out of their lives. The movement is dangerous and must be checked immediately or our church will go into disarray in Quebec."

NEW PRINTING DEVICE USED

Copy Punched in New York Transmitted Automatically to Type 611 Miles Away

NEW YORK (AP)—A man sitting in the New York offices of the Associated Press operated a linotype machine in Charlotte, N.C., 611 miles away, last night.

All he did was punch the keys of a typewriter and feed his copy into a metal-transmitting device. The result was type, set in column-width, in the office of the Charlotte Observer.

The device, called a semagraph, is the invention of Buford L. Green, veteran of 26 years' service in the Observer composing room. He perfected the semagraph after 12 years of work, with the co-operation of John P. White, mechanical supervisor of the Observer; W. T. White, and the financial backing of Curtis B. Johnson, the publisher. The typewriter used in New York was a standard machine which, each time it struck off a letter, also printed a code figure of one to six dots. Each line of copy contained five to seven words, the number that appears in a line of type one column wide.

The pages of this copy were fed into a transmitter in which a photo-electric cell picked out the code dots—the letters—and sent corresponding impulses over the wire to Charlotte.

TRANSFERRED TO LINOTYPE

There, in the Observer's composing room, a standard Associated Press printer, equipped with special type bars, reconverted the impulses into letters and their accompanying code dots. This sheet, identical with the original in the New York office, went into the linotype, and another photo-electric cell transformed the dots into impulses that operated the typesetting machine.

Ten thousand words were transmitted in the first long-distance test of the equipment, and type was produced in Charlotte at the rate of seven lines a minute.

Johnson, who supervised the New York end of the demonstration, said he thought the semagraph would not result in displacement of labor.

"Mechanical improvements in newspaper production have always increased the number of men employed in newspaper production," he said. "Witness the introduction of the linotype machine, rotary presses and stereotyping."

"The semagraph is just another advance in progress."

Conservative Wins British By-election

STAFFORD, Eng. (CP)—The government won with a slightly increased majority the Stafford by-election, held to fill the House of Commons seat, vacated by William Ormsby-Gore, now Lord Harlech, when he succeeded to the peerage on the death of his father.

The vote yesterday was: G. E. P. Thorneycroft, Conservative, 16,754; F. G. Lloyd, Labor, 12,346; Conservative majority 4,408.

In the 1935 general election Mr. Ormsby-Gore had a majority of 3,661, polling 16,175 votes against 12,514 for Mr. Lloyd.

The government's victory followed two recent successes, in West Derbyshire and Aylesbury, after Labor had captured three government seats in a row, Lichfield, West Fulham and Ipswich.

There is now only one vacancy in the House, Barnsley, caused by death of its member, a Laborite.

Duncan Board Calls For Junior High School Teacher

Special to the Times
DUNCAN — Resignation of James Currie from the staff of the Duncan Junior High School was received at the School Trustees meeting Wednesday.

A letter from the Junior Chamber of Commerce regarding means of checking the traffic hazard caused by school children spreading across the roads will be referred to the provincial police.

A resident appeared before the board to draw attention to damage done to the fence on his property which joins the Junior High School playing fields. He asked the board to build a new fence. This was referred to the committee on supplies and repairs.

Trustees Maitland and Cairns were appointed a special committee to survey accommodation for the September terms. The supplies and repairs committee tabled a list of alterations and painting needed during the summer holidays at an estimated cost of $625. A tender of C. Green for painting the gymnasium and kalsomining some of the school rooms was accepted.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for a junior high school teacher to teach physical education and mathematics, to replace Mr. Currie. Increases in teachers' salaries were authorized, totaling $800 for the school year and varying from $50 to $100 per teacher.

ALL URGED TO KEEP PLEDGES

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Large-scale deceit will bring disaster to any country, Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia told the 45th annual banquet of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association here last night. "In these days and in some places we have got away from the old idea of the importance of a promise," Mr. Macdonald said. "The spoken word and even sometimes the letter of the bond is forgotten conveniently by the promiser, but I believe nothing but moral and economic chaos can come to a country where deceit of this sort is practiced."

"The record of Canadian insurance companies will, I hope, stand as a solid rock of truth and honesty, an example and an inspiration to all men of good will and honor."

There has been too much talk of rights and not enough of responsibilities, Mr. Macdonald said. "I venture to say that if the press of this country is to remain free it must show that it is alive to its responsibilities, that its prime duty is to give facts, to enlighten and inform."

BARON STAMP IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—A newly-made British peer, who left his homeland as Sir Josiah Stamp, economist, was in New York today with the title of Baron Stamp of Shortlands.

A director of the Bank of England, president of the Associated British and Irish Railways and chairman of the board of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway, Lord Stamp was at sea on the liner Manhattan when the King's list of birthday honors was issued Wednesday, making him a Baron.

He talked on arrival here yesterday, more of business conditions than of his elevation to the peerage, which did not come as a surprise. "I had indications from the Prime Minister three weeks ago," he said.

The political attitude of Americans—the fact that "you think of your politics emotionally"—was one factor in the business recession, he said. "It is difficult, in New York, to discuss anything whatsoever without Roosevelt being brought into it. A conversation can start with Plato and come around to Roosevelt."

Those Airplane Orders

GREAT BRITAIN WILL BUY 400 AIR-planes from the United States. The British Air Ministry also has announced there is a possibility of "bringing into being increased capacity" in Canada "for the manufacture of aircraft on a long-range plan."

Shutting the stable-door after the horse has vanished, mixing the metaphor to make way for an old English saying, "batters no parsnips." Those 400 aerial fighting machines which Britain proposes to purchase from the United States could, however, have been built by British workmen. But the frank admission, which the United States order connotes, that the British aircraft program had fallen seriously short of the country's requirements—as pointedly hinted at by a large section of the press in Britain several times during the last year—will do no harm. It may, on the contrary, serve as a warning to Germany and Italy that the Baldwin frontier dictum has not been forgotten.

Canada will be ready and willing to do her part in the manufacture of airplanes as quickly and as efficiently as the "increased capacity" which Britain thinks feasible to bring into being in this country may permit. These questions now, of course, have to be regarded in the light of necessity, since the march of international events has temporarily eclipsed the philosophy of peace.

Elections in Eire

FOR THE SECOND TIME IN LESS THAN twelve months the people of Southern Ireland, now becoming better known by its official name, Eire, will go to the polls to choose a new Dail, or Parliament. June 17 is the date set for the contest. The election of 1937 resulted in a tie, Mr. de Valera commanding 69 of the 138 seats in the House, and the combined opposition accounting for the rest, with the Cosgrave party heading the largest group with 48 followers. Defeat for the government, by one vote, came on May 25, when a test was taken on the Civil Service Wage Bill. Sooner or later a way out of the deadlock had to be found. And despite his protestations to the contrary, it hardly seems logical for Mr. de Valera to suggest that he deprecates the strict drawing of party lines to force dissolution, especially when all the circumstances are taken into account. Five government supporters and two opposition candidates, by the way, have been returned by acclamation, leaving 207 aspirants to fight it out next week for the remaining 131 seats.

Last year's election was a bitter one because all the elements were there to make it bitter. Mr. de Valera had trotted out his new constitution and served it up to the people with the most alluring of republican garnishings. He dangled before them the tempting thought of complete severance of relations with Great Britain and any other parts of the British Empire which did not appeal especially to Eire in the political or economic sense. It went down quite well; but not as well as the doctrinaire President would have liked. The equal division of votes was bound to produce another election soon. But much has happened in the meantime. The out-and-out republican program has been discarded. Dublin and London got together. Two or three heart-to-heart talks between ministers from Eire and members of the British government accomplished more for the cause of Anglo-Irish relations than was ever thought possible as matters stood. Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. de Valera wiped the slate of old wrongs and misunderstandings practically clean. What to do with Northern Ireland, what to do with it until the Ulster government unbends more than it has shown so far the desire to unbend, is practically the only bit of unfinished business that remains to remind the British Empire that it still has what must be called an "Irish question."

The leader of Eire's government refuses to admit the impossibility of a united Ireland under the constitution of his own fashioning. In a speech on Tuesday he said he had "far greater hope" of its realization in his lifetime than he had six years ago. He put it this way: "The task of getting the six counties (Northern Ireland) is now merely the task of converting the relatively small number of those claiming to be Irishmen to recognize that this Island could be far happier and more prosperous and contented in a single state than divided as at present."

Mr. de Valera is nothing if not optimistic. And, meanwhile, the value of his political stock is obviously far greater than it was a year ago.

Disappointed Again

ON THE EVE OF THE SASKATCHEWAN poll the Vancouver Daily Province had to say something about what "tomorrow will tell." But it was very guarded.

After what our contemporary said about the "Golden Ears" of Dewdney, of the "legions of far countries and strange," not to mention the "pyrrhic victory" and the suggestion that Premier Pattullo "may well ponder on whether it was worth while," it naturally felt it the part of wisdom to be somewhat more circumspect.

Apparent must have been the necessity to forego the delights of the verbal binges which preceded the battle of Dewdney. So it just said in the main that votes of protest are common in Canada and implied that it would not be surprising if the Patterson government got "the wallop" this time. The Liberal landslide of 1934, it noted, followed four years of drought, and the memory of four more years of the same disability, "more widespread and severe than in the previous period," would accompany the people to the polls on this occasion. Thus said the Province: "The question is, will it serve the Patterson government as it served the Anderson government in 1934?"

The answer was definitely and unequivocally not the kind of answer the Province desired. But there is nothing it can do about it.

How We Do Things

WHILE IT IS APPARENT TO MOST Canadians that conditions on this continent are vastly dissimilar from conditions in Europe, and particularly in some parts of Continental Europe, they can be forgiven for not being able to understand why those states which continue to pull faces at one another over the territorial fence and make life and business as difficult as possible do not follow the example of good neighborliness which Canada and the United States set for themselves more than a hundred years ago.

This country and the neighboring republic, of course, have many points of view which differ immeasurably. Disputes between varied interests, naturally, are bound to crop up from time to time, as they have done even within the recollection of the youngest generation. But there is in existence, and has been in existence for many years, the requisite machinery to dispose of these matters in an equitable and peaceable fashion. It exists in its best known form, perhaps, in the International Joint Commission, which has general jurisdiction over questions arising principally but not exclusively along the common boundary. To it a chairman, two Commissioners and a secretary are nominated by each country. It has settled many important differences that have arisen from time to time. One of these concerned the recurring claims made by residents of the State of Washington against the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company in respect of sulphur fumes at Trail, across the border in this province. In 1935 the International Joint Commission awarded damages amounting to $350,000 for a period of years up to 1931. The company was then required to reduce the discharge of fumes to a point that would not cause damage to the adjoining United States farms and forests.

The farmers, however, have since lodged claims for nearly $3,000,000. At the instigation of the United States Government, a special arbitration tribunal was set up, consisting of a former Attorney-General of the United States, the Chief Justice of the Quebec Superior Court, and a Belgian jurist as chairman. Its report, which has recently been issued, fixes the damages at $390,000. It also finds that no damage was caused by smelter fumes during 1937, due to remedial measures adopted by the corporation costing about $10,000,000. Much of this, however, was recovered through the marketing of by-products arising from the removal of chemicals from the smelter fumes. The tribunal's award naturally has been acclaimed in this country as a testimonial to its impartiality, as well as to the efficiency of the earlier work of the International Joint Commission.

Notes

Social Credit in Saskatchewan somehow turned itself into Political Discredit on Wednesday.

A youth in Chicago stayed awake 72 hours—seemingly nature's effort to evolve a movie-going type for sitting through those double bills.

Newspaper headline: "Undeclared War Embarrasses Rotarians in China and Japan." It is also causing noncombatants in the zones of conflict not a little inconvenience.

A girl's dress has been designed to be worn forward as well as backward. Intended, no doubt, for the type of young thing who does not know whether she's coming or going.

If all the predictions of the rival parties which ran candidates in the Saskatchewan elections had come true, the next Legislature would have numbered 160 members, instead of the legal limit of 52.

PADLOCK LAW

From Winnipeg Free Press

Reports from Ottawa state that hardly ever has greater public pressure been brought to bear upon any government than has been evoked to effect the destruction of the Quebec Padlock Law. Protests and petitions have poured in from all over the country—even from Quebec itself, even though it is certain that the law itself finds favor with a majority of the Quebec people. This pressure should not be relaxed. If there are still organizations or individuals who have not yet voiced their protest, they should not delay to do so. This is the kind of action which, in a democracy such as ours, eventually brings results.

It may be that the government will not disallow the bill. But it is quite possible they will decide to remit it to the courts for a decision, and in the light of the Supreme Court rulings on the Alberta press bill it is highly probable the Padlock Law would be thrown out as ultra vires. The case for disallowance is strong. But if such drastic action is something from which the government shrinks, then let the courts take action.

CULTURAL CONTRIBUTION

FEW ARE THE CONTRIBUTIONS of Canada to the culture of the world. It is time, therefore, that historians recognized one unique and invaluable contribution from this country. I mean summer camps.

It is true, of course, that people in other countries have summer camps. They have camps of a sort in England, with Boy Scouts lighting portable acetylene stoves, and they have crowded seaside resorts where the band plays every night, and the mansions of the wealthy disfigure the banks of Lake Windermere.

They have summer cottages on the New England coast, complete with plumbing, modest hovels of 20 or 30 rooms and a two-car garage, and cocktails at the country club in the afternoon. They have tourist camps strung across the United States and resorts on the beaches with roller coasters, hot dog stands and the clamour of a thousand people toiling after pleasure.

But, so far as I have been able to discover, the summer camp invented on the lakes of Ontario and brought west to this country, is entirely unique. There is nothing quite like it—none of the effete luxury of the American camp, none of the restraints, formalities and restrictions of the English country place, and yet free of the cheap clamor and the gaudy outside of the American resort. It is civilized enough to be comfortable, but not enough to be tawdry or stuffy. It seems to reflect something of the wilderness character, a lingering love of the wilderness, a desire to be alone and uncrowded, that is fast dying out all over America.

Ah, we are a noble breed, we Canadian summer campers. You can tell us at this time of year by our ruined hands, grimed with honest paint from our boats. You can tell us by our sunburned necks and you could distinguish us still better by our sunburned faces, if you could see them; not, of course, by the cheap imitation sunburn, the civilized, decadent sunburn to be obtained on the beach or the golf course for nothing, but the real, deep, honest tan which comes only when you work for it, as I have said before, painting a boat in your bathing trunks at high noon in the month of June.

You can tell us by our mysterious mutterings among ourselves, by our talk of paints and calking and overboard engines, by our murmurings of flyhooks and spoons, by our jargon of double-bitted axes, crosscut saws, and steel wedges. You can tell our battered automobiles by their heaped-up piles of lumber, bed springs, chairs and canned goods. Finally, you can tell us by our rich and kindly dispositions, enriched by nature, made kind by exposure to the sun, ennobled by honest toil.

WORTH KEEPING

THE RECENT OUTBREAK of kidnapping in the United States, the ghastly murder of another little boy, making a terrible total in the last few years, ought to make Canadians think, if anything will. A crime of this sort, a human tragedy much easier to understand than statistics and trade balances and the screams of politicians, makes you realize in a flash that there is something in the life of this country worth preserving. We don't have crimes of that sort, and the reason is that we still somehow manage to maintain a different tradition of law and order, despite all the attrition of American culture.

And it is when a Canadian parent reads how children are abducted down there and murdered that it must occur to him that after all this country is about the best place in the world to live in. If you were in Mars, say, and had your choice of any country in the world today, what one would you take—for security, for peace, for safety from war and the madness of the world at large? If you had any sense you would take this one.

It is an obvious fact, but hardly any Canadians ever appreciate it. We are all so busy complaining about our own deficiencies as a nation, and they are many; that we hardly ever pause to remember that, for all our blundering, we have a fairly decent civilization here, as these things are reckoned in a lunatic world. Those who talk so glibly about our eventual absorption into the United States and there is more of this talk than ever at present—ought to remember these things, ought to remember that we have something here worth preserving, something too valuable to lose. But we shall have to use more sense than we have used in the past if we want to keep it.

CATS IN THE GARDEN

From Ottawa Journal

Lovers of birds, and lovers of gardens—very often the two affections go together—have a grievance against cats, especially at this season.

Gardens where there are trees or shrubbery are alive just now with birds, and many young feathered families are trying their new wings. A baby bird is easy prey for a prowling cat, and many little robins and wrens fall victims to these incorrigible hunters. Inevitably flowers and plants suffer from the operations. And, strange as it may seem to cat-lovers, there are numerous persons who would rather have flowers than cats.

Owners of cats should recognize the reality of this grievance, should not let their pets become nuisances to their neighbors. If pussy is permitted to run at large the owner cannot complain if a neighbor, trying to protect his garden and its birds, uses the argument of a well-aimed half brick.

MILITIA CAMP ATTENDANCE

To the Editor:—So long as there are rich cities on the Pacific Coast of Canada, so long must all the physically fit residents be trained in the proper use of arms of defence against raiding forces of all kinds. Whenever there is the least relaxation of police control on the high seas, piracy will at once show its head, and this is no idle statement. Hence, every coast country must ensure its safety from raids. This can only be done by each citizen doing his or her part in preparing to counter all raiding forces which can possibly be brought against the said cities or their approaches.

This training and preparation can be begun by employers encouraging employees in every way to join a unit and attend the annual training camp to the full extent without penalizing their position in any way.

All private customers and householders can give a great contribution to the efficiency of all training camps by cheerfully accepting any diminution of delivery and other service during the camp fortnight. It is certain that every firm employing several men of military age would be willing to give leave with pay for camp, if each customer would co-operate and do his or her part in the lessening of delivery and other services for a fortnight. It is only right that every man who undergoes military training for three years or more to prepare himself to defend his own and other people's homes from the raider should receive full support from every resident and householder.

There are so many automobiles now that it should be possible to arrange for the car of the husband to bring home "the provisions," etc., in the evening—so that people would only have to look ahead, like the men who join the militia, to prepare ahead of time to prevent raids. This is simply a form of co-operation in the preparation for the defence of the homes of the said customers, which defence is being ensured by the very young men who give them faithful service for the greater part of the year. Let Mr. and Mrs. Customer do a little thinking, and so do their share in preparing for the defence of their homes.

AN OLD GLASS FACTORY

London Observer

Few people realize that just outside London is a factory where glass is blown in substantially the same way as it was three or four thousand years before Christ. Until 15 years ago this ancient glass works was in Tudor Street, close to the Observer office, where it had been since the year after the Great Fire. When, 15 years ago, the Whitefriars—so called from the London neighborhood to which they belonged—moved to the suburbs, they took with them a cutting from the fig tree at the old factory. It grew and flourishes now outside a structure which resembles those described in 16th and 17th century treatises on glass-blowing.

LIVES WITHOUT SLEEP

From Daily Mail, London

Though such an eternity of insomnia seems unbelievable, there is one man who has endured it, and apparently without discomfort. Paul Kern, of Bullaport, whom a head wound in 1915 has wholly deprived of sleep, declares that a continuous twenty-four hours a day has done him no harm. During the period when all the world is awake, he works in normal fashion at an insurance office. But in the hours of darkness Kern listens to the wireless from other lands where day still reigns. Also he eats—four night meals in addition to the four he takes by day.

Better English

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "Have either of you seen John recently?"
2. What is the correct pronunciation of "malleable"?
3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Drolery, drunkard, drugery.
4. What does the word "permeate" mean?
5. What is a word beginning with imp that means "freedom from punishment"?

ANSWERS

1. Say, "Has either of you." Either is the singular subject. 2. Pronounce malle-a-b'l, first 'a' as in at, and four syllables, not malle-a-b'l. Accent first syllable. 3. Drudgery. 4. To penetrate; pass through; saturate. "Water permeates sand." 5. Impunity.

NO BUCHMANITE, SHE

To the Editor:—Will you permit me a small space to say that those people at Qualicum Beach who found it necessary to honor Dr. Buchanan with a birthday cake and trimmings might have much more intelligently used those funds which such a celebration must have necessitated had they provided each member of the Oxford Group with a copy of the June issue of Ken.

OH, LAND OF LIBERTY!

To the Editor:—Mr. Kennedy, U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, has recently issued an edict that only Americans actually residing in Great Britain are to attend the drawing-rooms of royalty.

It is certainly rather hard on the visitors from the United States who are able to get cards for this highly-desired privilege to be so sternly forbidden to attend these functions. One can scarcely understand this curtailing of the personal liberties of American citizens. He is the first ambassador to issue such an edict.

FRONTIER COLLEGE WORKERS COMING

To the Editor:—This year we are carrying on Frontier College work as usual in British Columbia. During the present season we shall have 10 or 12 representatives in your province. In addition we are sending a very considerable quantity of magazines and books to some isolated work gangs and camps west of the Rockies.

Thanking you for your assistance to Frontier College, not only for myself, but also on behalf of the men on the field who are serving as laborer-teachers.

"A CONSERVATIVE REVOLUTIONARY"

To the Editor:—The church is giving ample evidence that it is much concerned about the possibility of Communism; but it would seem that in Canada, at least, so long as the Communist Party is offered by such material as the Tim Bucks, etc., there is no fear or hope, as the case may be, of Communism, because Conservatism must be driven out before Communism takes its place, and Tim Buck on June 2 informed the Rowell Commission that he was a very Conservative individual. This great revolutionary Conservative also informed the commission "that armed struggle as an instrument of policy had been eliminated from the theses and constitution of the Communist Party of Canada." Did he mean arms or alms?

The church is, in its fear, running the risk (if it be possible) of making itself look more ridiculous than the fanatics who in their hallucinations, call themselves Communists. Rackets are rackets; let them be religious or political.

SHOCKED BY C.S. MONITOR

To the Editor:—Having been brought up in the old school, in which self-praise was considered not only as no recommendation, but as exceedingly bad manners, it was a great shock to find that most excellent paper the Christian Science Monitor in a recent issue putting "un-Americanism" in the same class as selfish politics and other evil things.

As the Bible teaches humility as one of the greatest virtues, the United States citizens better look to it lest by this habit of exalting they shut themselves out of participating in the Bible promise, "the meek shall inherit the earth."

We believe the Monitor would be better advised to follow the example of the revered Mrs. Eddy, in whose writings there is the spirit of the love that vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up.

MRS. R. G. ELLIS.

"EAT MORE" CAMPAIGNS RIDICULOUS

To the Editor:—The Canadian Government has adopted a fish-boosting plan to persuade Canadians to eat more fish, and now some cattle breeders in western Canada are demanding a National Beef Committee to induce people to eat more beef. They think they can increase their sales by shouting "Eat more beef! Eat more fish!"

That is not common sense. The market cannot be improved by trying to induce people to stuff their stomachs with more beef and more fish than they need.

What is the proper thing to do? Factory people are ready buyers of beef and fish, and in order to increase the sales of those foods in western Canada, the number of factory workers there should be increased. If more factories were established in western Canada, the factory workers would buy more beef, fish and other food, and that is how to increase the sale of such goods. The poverty exposed by the Rowell Commission in western Canada proves that more factories are needed there.

JAMES PHILBERT,
Mission, B.C.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE

To the Editor:—We note with regret the error made by your reporter in stating that Mr. Edwardson was divisional secretary-treasurer of this division. Mr. Edwardson is the secretary of the B.C. Council of the St. John Ambulance Association, and is responsible for the association's work throughout the province, and it was for his valuable work in this connection that the award was presented.

The arranging and instructing of first aid classes in this city is under the Victoria centre of the association, of which Mr. Moore is secretary. Mr. Moore will, we know, be pleased to receive applications for attendance at the classes this fall.

The Victoria Ambulance Division No. 65 of the St. John Ambulance Brigades Overseas, is commanded by Divisional Superintendent E. J. Harwood. All organizations desiring the attendance of this division at sports, picnics, etc., must communicate with the divisional secretary, E. G. Beasly, and anyone possessing a St. John Ambulance certificate who would like to join the division should call G6367, or write to 1221 Oxford Street, ST. JOHN AMBULANCE BRIGADE.

NEW ZEALAND ALSO OWES MUCH TO THE SCOTS

To the Editor:—For many years New Zealand agents abroad have advised people of conditions there. As the natural increase in population provided sufficient laborers, artisans, professionals, office help and school teachers, etc., they have been told that there are few openings. But the British tenant farmer, experienced, practical, reliable folk from a similar climate, who have made good, can take up land with their knowledge and some cash and will make a success right from the start—these have been heartily welcomed—a sort of "Come to my arms, you bundle of charms."

From this you will see that we have many Highlanders, frae bonnie Scotland, with scones and butter (good), haggis (bad), whiskey (good), hoot mon, physically and mentally sound, who very shrewdly know a good settler from a poor one.

We owe vera vera mooch to Sandy for the success of our country, besides his precious whiskey. He may have a red nose (the good climate), but he has a warm heart, is honest, poetical and loves a joke even on himself, but if he mentions bagpipes many people immediately have a pressing date elsewhere.

The Labor Government, containing some more Sandies, grants naturalized aliens (including Asiatics) citizen rights, but do not forget that settlers have been practically all hand-picked by hard-headed folk with few theories, and if you can get by them, entering heaven will be easy for you. The superiority of the Chinaman, civilized thousands of years ago, with his great cooperative spirit in his family is recognized as a higher type than Gangster Mussolini. Funny thing, the more the writer sees and understands about wretched foreigners the more he thinks of them.

CHARLES WALKDEN,
New Zealand.

STEP TO CHURCH UNITY

To the Editor:—Eighty delegates from various non-Roman communions scattered through out the world met in conference at Utrecht, Holland, May 9 to 13, to consider a plan for a world-wide council of churches. This council, ecumenical in scope, is the outcome of the conference on "Life and Work" held in Oxford, England, and "Faith and Order" held in Edinburgh, Scotland, last fall.

Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, United Church, and Rev. Dr. R. A. Hiltz, Anglican, represented Canada. The Archbishop of York (Temple) presided at all the sessions.

Discussions delivered in several foreign tongues were free on all questions, but limited to five minutes duration. No resolutions, balloting, lobbying, nor any coercion or control allowed, which eventually led to practical unanimity.

The first and most significant decision was the adoption of a doctrinal base for the world plan to be submitted to the churches. "A fellowship of churches which accept our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Saviour."

Surely such a platform is broad enough for any Christian to stand upon. Briefly outlined that is the doctrinal basis of the council. Those who can qualify under it are invited to enroll in this fellowship.

The future universal church must not be creedless. Only upon a solid foundation of common faith can unity be realized.

The second agreement reached was that this proposed world assembly shall not in any way assume to itself authority which rests and must continue to rest with autonomous constituent churches. It shall not legislate for the churches, nor shall it act for them in any manner except to offer counsel and provide opportunity for united action in matters of common interest; to call regional and world conferences as occasion may require and to take action on behalf of constituent churches in such matters as these constituent churches freely commit it.

The safeguards provided in this plan block any attempted short cuts to church unity by comprehension or absorption.

W. LEONARD CULLEN.

IS SOCIAL CREDIT HITLERISH?

To the Editor:—Answering the letter of J. Ainsler we would say that to anyone acquainted with Social Credit literature the answer is a most emphatic—no. But apparently the writer, without seeking information, has drawn her own inference from an address on "The Economic Situation in Germany," and considered them worth airing in your columns.

Social Credit is not "Hitlerism," but Hitlerism is what we shall get in Canada if the people do not awaken and use their franchise to vote for results; in other words, to abolish poverty, seeing to it that their representatives are their (paid) servants, not their rulers to tell them (the people) what they (the rulers) think is for the best.

The subject of the address had nothing whatever to do with moral issues, such as the justification for invading Belgium, persecution of the Jewish people and the church, both Lutheran and Roman, with which a visitor to the society's room, presumably the writer, very unapologetically sought, to involve the speaker. The chairman very properly ruled the questions out of order.

As regards the speaker, he is of German birth, having been born in that portion of Schleswig-Holstein under German rule, but leaving there at about the age of 18 years has lived for many years in the British Dominions and is now awaiting naturalization. He is a master mariner, and having travelled considerably has spoken before numerous Canadian audiences on his experiences. Our society was particularly fortunate in having him and has every reason to believe his opinions on the moral issues referred to are as chivalrous as those of J. Ainsler.

The whole question of Social Credit is not, as suggested by that writer, a moral one. Social Crediters have no wish to appear more moral than any other citizens of goodwill who hope and work for the best for their country and for the welfare of their fellow men and women.

Beyond that, Social Credit is a set of money reform proposals, quite definite and scientific, whereby control of money creation and issue would be restored to the state and whereby money would be issued, as required by the nation to enable it to produce and consume an increasing quantity of wealth, as a debt-free credit to the community, without inflation and without touching any person's property or liberty.

In order to preserve our democratic heritage, Social Credit proposes that the present shackles of debt-money be struck from power to produce and distribute wealth. That is all.

There is nothing so pleasing to debt-finance as a lot of people discussing morals instead of debt-finance. As long as people worry about each other's morals and pay no attention to their financial chains, finance is safe on its throne.

World-wide Attack On Cancer

Copyright 1937

A hint that starch grains injected into cancerous tumors will stop their growth, and in many cases cause them to disappear is contained in one of the 33 cancer researches, supported by the International Cancer Research Foundation grants totaling over $300,000.

This hopeful experiment was made on a mouse tumor by Prof. Robert Chambers and C. G. Grand of New York University's department of biology. Injections of starch grains "produced a marked infiltration of polymorphonuclear leucocytes into the tumor." Leucocytes or white blood cells are the soldiers of the blood stream that fight invading germs. The accumulation of leucocytes inhibited further growth of the tumor, and in many cases, the tumor disappeared completely. Inert particles, like charcoal, did not produce the effect. So far the method has been applied to mice only.

The ultimate solution of the cancer, "the greatest unsolved problem in medicine today," will come from research by well-trained investigators, said W. H. Donner, president and founder. "Why is there so little money for cancer research?" asked Mr. Donner. "The answer lies probably in the fact that research appeals only to the intellect. Hospitalization and treatment for the amelioration of suffering make an obvious emotional appeal to a large public; the alleviation of pain is humanitarian, and a necessary function of civilized society."

"The solution of the cancer problem, however, is an intellectual rather than an emotional matter, because it will come from research. Essential though care and treatment are, they can not be of the slightest help in preventing the development of malignant disease in the next sufferer. For him or for her, hope lies in the laboratories."

Human cancer cells and tissues have been kept growing for years in glass dishes and fed artificially, the report of the Johns Hopkins cancer research and tissue culture laboratories reveals. The "J.D." human tumor strain has been maintained in pure and continuous tissue culture for five and a half years, and an "AR" strain has existed four years. A number of brain tumors had been cultured for almost a year when the report was submitted.

A new theory of cancer formation is suggested by experiments of Dr. A. Haddow of the University of Edinburgh. Chemicals from coal tars produce certain kinds of cancers, and the new idea is that these carcinogenic hydrocarbons actually inhibit growth of the cells instead of stimulating them. The cancer is believed to result from the rise of a new cell race that rebels from the prolonged retardation of the growth of normal cells and multiplies rapidly, forming the cancer.

Army and Navy Picnic Success

Members of the Victoria Branch of the Army and Navy Veterans, with their friends and families, totalling more than 400, took part in the organization's picnic outing at Deep Cove yesterday.

Taken out in bus loads at 10:30 in the morning the large crowd participated in an active program of sports and other amusements, returning after 6. The program included events for both adults and children. Prizewinners received their awards from Brigadier J. S. Brown, president.

Thomas Jones, H. Haswell and J. Moffatt acted as judges, and Charles Jasper was the starter, with Chief Petty Officer Dennis as master of ceremonies. Candies, soft drinks, fruit and ice cream were distributed among the children who took a major part in the events.

Pulpit Memorial To Dean Quainton

As a memorial to the late Dean Quainton and a tribute to the esteem with which he was held by Victorians a pulpit, in keeping with the building, will be erected in Christ Church Cathedral.

Preliminary plans for the memorial are contained in a circular letter from the committee in charge which has been distributed among the cathedral congregation. Very Rev. Spencer Elliott, the new dean, is chairman of the committee.

An hour of complete quiet in the home after dinner—with no music, conversation or laughter—will not only help school children master their homework, but will prove restful to the adults, advises the medical director of one insurance company.

Slash Burning Reduces Hazard

Chief Forester Cites Aims of Forest Branch in New Protection Policy

NANAIMO — Ninety-one per cent of the acreage burned and 99 per cent of the damage incurred in the larger forest fires in the Duncan-Cowichan area in the last 15 years was in fires starting in slash areas.

This was the statement to the Nanaimo and District Fish and Game Protection Association last night by Ernest C. Manning, chief forester of British Columbia, in an address explaining the forest branch's new policy of intensified slash burning to prevent forest fires and help in rebuilding the depleted forest stocks of the island.

"We do not expect that slash burning will do more than ameliorate the present adverse conditions on our cut-over areas," Mr. Manning said. "It is only one of several steps that must be taken if conditions with respect to regeneration are to be materially improved. We shall make mistakes, but, withal, isn't it preferable to accomplish something than to wait for a perfect, painless remedy that will never be found?"

Mr. Manning explained that the department has power to demand that slash be burned by logging operators, who are subject to a $5 per acre penalty if instructions are not carried out.

Each operation, more than 1,000 ft. long, will be inspected by a staff of two forest protection experts and two technical foresters to determine which should be burned and which should not.

ALL TO BE INSPECTED

"Every area of slash in the Douglas fir region must be inspected and a decision made," he said. "In many areas, particularly of high fire hazard, burning will obviously be necessary. In other areas it will be readily apparent that burning is unnecessary. Where burning is considered necessary we will try to see to it that the operators actually plan and carry it out properly. We will give every assistance possible to operators in the way of advice and weather forecasts, but our staff is limited and in the last analysis the responsibility is the operator's. We will not force him into a burn he fears. He may pay penalty instead, and we then have the option of trying to protect the area from fire or burn it ourselves at a later date, with the possibility of planting it if necessary, and funds are available."

Mr. Manning said objection to slash-burning was expected because of fears that the fire might get out of hand and because of the extra cost on the industry. "We sympathize with the first, as there is some element of chance in any fire, no matter how carefully handled. We regret the second, but the expense involved will not add, on an average, more than 10c per 1,000 board feet to costs of logging. Both the risk and the expense involved should be accepted as unavoidable features of logging."

IN PUBLIC INTEREST

"We feel that the innate sense of justice of the logging operators themselves will compel them to recognize that the public interest is entitled to recognition in this matter."

The chief forester summarized the results of last year's survey by the forest branch of the logged-over areas on the island and the condition of regrowth.

In the area tributary to Duncan, he said, there were 100,000 acres logged off, and this was being added to at the rate of 6,000 acres a year. About 16,000 acres were already clear for farm purposes. Of the remaining 84,000 acres, three-quarters was barren or unsatisfactorily restocked with young growth.

"Young growth will come in on a portion of those areas most recently logged," he said, "but we found that over half of even the areas logged prior to 1926 was still barren or had only a sparse crop of trees."

LARGE AREA BARREN

"When one considers that those areas logged prior to 1926 included ground-yarved areas of earlier days, we believe that a considerably higher percentage of the areas being logged under present conditions, at least on the larger operations, will remain barren or unsatisfactorily restocked for a long time."

He said the restocking on 70,000 acres of logged lands around Nanaimo were better than in the Duncan section, but further north conditions were even worse.

Citing the Duncan area as an example, he asked: "What do you suggest should be done with the 84,000 acres of logged lands left?"

"Some of it will be used for grazing or cleared for farming at a cost of $300 to $400 per acre, but most of it, together with the bulk of the areas logged from now on, must grow a new forest crop or go barren. "Barren lands pay no taxes and support no payroll. They are a liability instead of an asset. For these reasons we can all agree that every reasonable effort should be exerted to prevent our cut-over areas from going barren."

REDUCING HAZARD

The three main reasons for lack of new growth were the absence of a supply of seed, inadequate protection from fire on cut-over areas and the time and nature of slash burns. Both seedling and fire protection, he pointed out, involved heavy costs. Slash disposal was primarily a means of reducing the hazard.

Mr. Manning argued that responsibility for disposing of slash rested with logging operators. "A slash hazard is a public nuisance and the responsibility for abating it rests upon those who created it."

"I cannot build a public nuisance, such as a pig-pen, on my city lot at home, nor disturb my neighbors by unnecessary noises. The pulp mill cannot dump its waste liquors into the sea if thereby injury to fish is caused. The farmer must destroy the noxious weeds on his land. Similarly, the public interest demands that the hazard of certain slash areas should be abated as a safeguard to property and life and the timber crop of the next generation."

Mr. Manning said sportsmen need not fear the forest branch's slash burning policy would affect game any more than could be helped. Both forest and game services had the same objectives, and if at any time their policies conflicted they would get together to work out the best solution.

"The sportsmen of this district who are apprehensive of slash-burning will agree with us that the rapid establishment of a forest cover on these cut-over lands will restore your stream flow and be beneficial to both game and the fish. Their objective is therefore our objective, and I assure you it involves the burning of slash on many areas."

Mr. Manning closed his talk with pictures of the timber industry in the Duncan-Cowichan district, which employed 2,200 men and produced $6,000,000 worth of forest goods last year. This, he said, was the kind of settled communities that his branch wanted to perpetuate.

Students Favor House System

Pupils at Victoria High Vote 8 to 1 For Grouping Plan

On a questionnaire form which was recently distributed among Victoria High School students, 678 students voted for the adoption of a "house system" in Victoria High School and 82 students voted against it.

The house system is the method of dividing the school up into four different groups for the purpose of competition in sports, debating and other activities. Each house would elect their own officers who would be responsible to a central group of officers. Since most of the students are in favor of the house system, it only remains with the teachers of the institution to give their approval.

In another question 642 students voted against an annual compulsory Students' Association fee of $1 and 118 students were in favor.

Radio Grammar Is Under Fire

Special to the Times
DUNCAN — Improper grammar used by radio commentators in Canada was a subject of discussion by the Duncan-School Board Wednesday.

Among the resolutions to be forwarded to the annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association was one urging that commentators be more particular of the grammar they use.

Other resolutions were that merchants be forced to employ apprentices, and that the burden of school taxation be removed from land.

Commons Bars Maine Petition

OTTAWA (CP) — The petition presented to Parliament by J. F. Pouliot, Liberal, Temiscouata, Que., asking for annexation of a small northern corner of the State of Maine to Canada, was not accepted because "it is defective in form and in substance," it was disclosed in the Commons votes and proceedings yesterday. The clerk of petitions advised the House the petition did not conform with the requirements of the House.

The territory concerned is a small point of Maine jutting into Quebec province near the north-west corner of New Brunswick and centring on the village of Estouart in Temiscouata County, Quebec.

W.A. MEETING

DUNCAN — Mrs. H. P. Swan was guest speaker at a meeting of the W.A. to the Canadian Legion held Wednesday. She gave a talk on her trip to the Old Country last year with particular reference to the Coronation and the trooping of the colors, and the work done by the British Legion in England.

It was decided to hold a farewell party on June 20 before vacating the clubrooms. A Franch factory is producing artificial zeolite for use in water softening.

SLEEPLESSNESS due to INDIGESTION

If the gnawing, nagging discomforts of indigestion keep you awake night after night, consider the experience of Mrs. A. B. of Wallacey, That was her trouble, too. Tossing and turning in sleepless discomfort! Suffering the pains of a churning, acid-bitten stomach! Then she took Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. Almost at once she found she had conquered her trouble. The pains ceased. She could sleep soundly, peacefully. Maclean Brand Stomach Powder quickly contracted the acid condition that was gnawing away at the stomach lining. It soothed the inflamed tissues, and helped the stomach to do its proper work of digestion. This Maclean Brand Stomach Powder is used in many leading British hospitals. Try it. But be sure you get the genuine Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. Look for the signature, "Alex. C. Maclean," on both bottle and carton. 75c either powder or tablets, at druggists. 115

Bassett, West Saanich Road. Conveners named were: Outdoor games, Mrs. P. M. Monckton; bridge, Mrs. L. H. MacQueen; candy, Mrs. Victor Robinson and Mrs. K. Brown; home cooking, Miss E. Phillips and Mrs. A. D. Grieve; teas, Mrs. T. T. Hutchison and Mrs. F. Hayward. Refreshments were served by the sick and visiting and welcome committee.

The Second Mile Club held its monthly meeting recently at Mrs. Permaine's home on Cook Street, the president, Mrs. Waller, in the chair, Mrs. Permaine Sr., conducting the devotional. Many visits to the sick were reported and donations voted to worthy causes. Mrs. Eberts proved a very efficient auctioneer during the evening and a good sum was realized from the sale. Refreshments were served from a table centred with a bowl of sweet peas and green tapers. Mrs. Waller presided at the tea urn, and was assisted by Mrs. B. Fuggie, Mrs. Dodsworth, Mrs. Geo. Bowers and Miss Etheridge.

Clavichordist Has Temple Of Music

Wanda Landowska's Recitals At Paris Home Unique

By GLADYS M. ARNOLD
Canadian Press Correspondent
PARIS—Wanda Landowska is one of those rare musicians who has the courage to stay at home and let the public come to her. Having built her "temple of music" in the quiet little village of Saint-Leu, about an hour's ride from Paris, music lovers of many nations go out for her unique series of piano and clavichord concerts 12 consecutive Sundays every summer.

This year's series goes on through June, July and August, and she has chosen principally Bach, Mozart and Beethoven. Rated as the world's greatest clavichordist, she produces with that instrument (which in the hands of less than a genius is inclined to be tiny) an unforgettable impression.

Wanda Landowska is a romantic exception. Everything about her is slightly eccentric, and yet the whole stirs the imagination. Her home, modest enough, is in an extraordinarily beautiful garden. Enclosed with high walls carpeted with climbing roses and honeysuckle; lilacs, roses and beds of flowers break the lawn and border the walks, while under the weeping willows and around the old oak trees, benches have been placed for the international audience which comes every Sunday.

TEMPLE OF MUSIC

In the lower end of the garden stands the "temple of music"—a building partly hidden by flowering shrubs and large enough to hold 300 listeners. Its small cottage windows curtained with yellow silk, and the roof which opens making the blue sky the ceiling. On a simple platform stands a grand piano, two clavichords and a tiny spinet. Here, with the windows open to the butterflies and the heavy perfume of the flowers, Landowska is in her element creating an illusion of poetic beauty almost incredible in a world which distrusts everything it suspects of the slightest sentimentality.

Landowska herself, Russian, her hair wrapped around her head simply (slightly Isadora Duncanish), wears a flowing gown, Greek lines, and is accompanied, usually, by one of her pupils also dressed in classic fashion. The duty of this young girl is to turn the pages when she uses music, or to sit at her feet while she plays. The program is divided into two parts, each from three-quarters of an hour to an hour in length, and the audience is requested not to applaud except at the end of the concert.

EFFECT HYPNOTIC

The musician seats herself, closes her eyes, and when not a sound is to be heard except the birds in the garden, she begins to speak. Her voice is low, a caress, and as she speaks of the musician she is about to interpret she has almost a hypnotic effect upon her company. Mozart into a sphere of harmony where we may be refreshed. "It's glorious..." her voice trails off and she begins. A young Winnipeg musician, Mrs. John Gairdner, studying in Paris and who was accepted as Landowska's pupil, said of her once: "Music is like a drug to Landowska. As she plays she almost loses consciousness, and she intoxicates all those about her."

In the garden under the trees and on the grass those who could not be seated in the "temple" appear to be in a trance. It is certain that after finishing the spell of her extraordinary personality sometimes holds them for nearly three minutes before they begin to applaud.

Guard Jobs Of Married Women

U.S. Business Clubs Oppose Laws To Restrict Earnings

BOSTON (CP)—Delegates from the Massachusetts Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in session at Swampscott voted unanimously to oppose legislation that would discriminate against the employment of women, married or single, because of their sex.

That there would be such organized opposition from women in business was to be expected. They may naturally take the lead in speaking for their sisters in industry, says The Transcript editorially.

"The question is perhaps of chief interest as it relates to married women. In particular, the attempts to expel them from the public service are many and varied. Their right to a place among the teachers is challenged. Effort to bar them from other positions is on foot. But even the most active of their opponents make a distinction between those who need the work and those whose husbands are supposed to be able to support them. "Therein lies a difficulty in applying a policy of exclusion. How are the standards of living which shall decide the question to be determined? That is one among many perplexities which present themselves. Is it right, in principle at least, to debar a married woman from teaching school if her sister who is practicing law has a prosperous husband? There are male members of the bar and unmarried women lawyers who are patiently waiting for clients. "This proposal to shut off the earning power of married women, not to mention discrimination against the unmarried, invites discussion. It is not to be settled on the mere assertion that there is a deserving applicant for every vacancy so created."

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

CHARLEY YATES was a 12-year-old member of a party of Georgians who went down New York harbor to meet Bobby Jones when the master golfer returned with his first British open championship in 1926. A dream was realized when the 24-year-old Yates bagged the British amateur hard way at Troon, a few days before he plunged into Walker Cup play. When young Charley went down the bay 12 years ago, he confided to Ed Danforth, the Atlanta sports editor, that some day he hoped to win a big British tournament.

Charley's father, P. D. Yates, a wholesale drygoods man, is a left-handed player. Papa cut down an old set of his southpaw sticks, and started Charley out at the age of two. However, when Charley was three, the elder Yates decided that he didn't want his boy to be a left-hander, so he had right-handed clubs made.

Charley Yates never wanted for consistency of purpose. One of his greater assets is that he never looks back. A missed shot does not bother him. He is playing the next shot while his ball is in the air. Yates is a long striding, comedian type with a long southern drawl. He's from Dixie. He is absolutely without nerves. He is tireless on a practice tee, and has a humility that makes him willing to learn. He'll look and listen.

George Sargent, United States open champion of 1909 and the professional of Atlanta's East Lake, used slow moving pictures in 1932 to change Yates' style. This was made necessary by the fact that Yates had grown several inches in two years.

Previous to his departure with the Walker Cup team, Sargent schooled his charge in low iron shots to play in the anticipated high winds and rain of the seaside courses on the other side. Yates got a break in the weather, but he was prepared. He was red hot, too.

Yates is capable of great concentration, yet he will chatter pleasantly between shots. He wisecracked through his 36-hole final with the robust Cecil Ewing, the Irish internationalist and British Walker Cupper.

Yates is easy to approach, and is never ruffled. He puts quickly, claiming that he really is nervous, and does not want to give his nerves a chance to throw him off.

Charley is the idol of East Lake negro caddies. A dozen of them chipped in and sent him a cable containing one word, "Congratulations." Twelve names were signed thereto. The caddies refused to work while Charley was battling in the final. They listened to a battered radio, as the description of his brilliant victory floated across the Atlantic. Charley, who was born in Atlanta, played on public school teams there. He graduated from Georgia Tech, and played on its team, as Bobby Jones had done a decade before. He now is a clerk in the First National Bank of Atlanta. Yates won a junior tournament at Druid Hills at the age of 11.

In 1924, when Charley was 10, he followed Bobby Jones and Cyril J. H. Tolley in an East Lake exhibition. He marveled at Tolley's long drives, so he bested a boyhood idol when he repulsed Tolley in the quarter-finals the other afternoon. Bobby Jones always has been Yates' idol. They have been close friends for years.

Yates won the U.S. intercollegiate championship as captain of the Georgia Tech team in 1934, and capped the U.S. western amateur in 1935. He played on the Walker Cup team for the first time two years ago. Like Bobby Jones, Charley grew up within two blocks of the East Lake course. Together, they've made East Lake the only club in the world and in all history to furnish two British amateur champions.

Burrards Score Lacrosse Win

VANCOUVER—If it wasn't for Richmond farmers who have yet to record a victory this season, the slipping North Shore Indians would be sitting in the cellar of the Inter-city Box Lacrosse League today.

Vancouver Burrards handed the redskins their third straight defeat last night, 18 to 8, and moved to within two points of the second place, Canadian champion New Westminster Salmonbellies. The Braves were left behind in fourth place.

Many Favorites Blasted Out of U.S. Championship; Picard-Hines Lead

DENVER (AP)—Slightly groggy but still in there punching, golf's bigwigs and less noted members of the clan let loose their best shots today in another bout with par which brought the United States national open championship through the second round.

It was "do or die" this day on ribbon-like fairways and treacherous greens of Cherry Hills. When the bombardment ceased nearly two-thirds of the field was slated to take that last long trek to the sidelines of the biggest golfing show of 1938.

The 60 low scorers and tie remained to fight it out in the last 36 holes tomorrow.

Pace-setters Henry Picard and Jimmy Hines teed off in an easier frame of mind than many of their five-star competitors. Each knocked out a first-round 70. It was one under par for the mile-high course where drives travel swiftly to greater distances in the rarefied atmosphere but where true placement of shots is more essential in the compilation of the final score.

Lean, lank Picard from Hershey, Pa., clubbed his sub-par effort into the records with a 36-34. Hines, blonde and easy-going New Yorker, reversed the figures for the same total.

SNEAD HAS 77

The opening favorite, Sam Snead of West Virginia, bobbed up with a dismal 77 but was still able to smile. He may or may not be among the select 50 after today, depending on how many strokes he loses off the first-round score.

Harry Cooper, from Chicopee, Mass., and renowned for his bulldog tenacity, was not any too well off starting off with a 76.

Five important men in the divot-chopping business practically clubbed themselves out of contention with opening-day scores as high as this Rocky Mountain links rendezvous. Road 'em and weep: Horton Smith 80, Ky Laffoon 81, Jimmy Thomson 82, Bobby Cusick 83, Sam Parks, 1935 champion, 85.

Emery Zimmerman, slight, bespectacled and genuine "dark horse," Willie Hunter, one-time British amateur champion now playing for pay out of Los Angeles, and Dick Metz, Chicago, teed off in good second-round shape. Zimmerman started his second round backed by an opening 72, while Hunter and Metz were contenders at 73.

Defending champion Ralph Guldahl and three former titleholders, Gene Sarazen, Olin Dutra and Tony Manero, were soundly played with seven others at 74 strokes.

Dean Must Rest Arm Indefinitely

CHICAGO—The $185,000 right arm of Dizzy Dean, of no use to Chicago Cubs since May 3 is to be rested again, this time indefinitely.

Charlie Grimm, manager of the Cubs, announced yesterday Dean will not pitch during the Cubs' home stay concluding Sunday. Dean, after warming up Wednesday for relief pitching duty, reported his arm was tired and ached. He said, however, there was no acute pain in the shoulder, which laid him up after four starting efforts.

Classy Field For Bike Race Tonight

Strong Local and Vancouver Challenge Offered H. Whitehead in Colonist Grind

A select field of local and Vancouver riders will challenge Harold Whitehead, defending champion in tonight's Colonist bicycle race, main road classic of the season here.

In all 32 will compete in the different classes, including five in the A division and 11 in the B section.

Racing Whitehead in the first division will be John Newman, Saanichton; Tom Howe, and Jim Davies, Vancouver, and Neil Duval, Royal Oak, a former winner of the event.

During the event "Torchy" Peden, Doug Peden, "Rusty" Peden, "Muzz" Patrick and Lew Rush, all men who have ridden in the race in former years and have scaled the heights of the moneyed game, will give a demonstration of professional riding.

The presentation of a gold plated bike to "Torchy" Peden will open the show at 7. Herbert Anson, M.P.P. will make the presentation for the Canada Cycle

BUDGE GAINS LAST ROUND

U.S. Star Will Meet Menzel
in Final of French Tennis Championship

AUTEUIL, France—Giant Roderich Menzel of Czechoslovakia was the final barrier yesterday between Don Budge of California and the second trick in his hoped-for tennis grand slam.

Budge and Menzel, making a comeback after a year's absence from international tennis, are finalists in the French hard court singles championship. Budge, already winner this year of the Australian crown, hopes to add to it the French, British and United States titles this summer.

The finalists gained their brackets with straight-set semi-final triumphs. The Californian blasted away Joseph Pallada of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. Menzel eliminated Pallada's countryman and Davis Cup partner, Ferenc Fencsek, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

In the women's semi-finals, Simone Mathieu, France's ranking women tennis player, defeated Mme. A. Hall, France, 6-7, 6-1. Mathieu will be pitted in the final round against Mme. Pierre Lanfry, the former Nelly Adamson of Belgium, who eliminated Frau Rolin-Couqueroy of the Netherlands, 6-2, 6-4.

Freak Accident Kills Spectator

The wheel missing from this tangled wreckage of a racing car brought death to a spectator at the 500-mile Indianapolis speedway classic. Sprung loose from the catapulting machine of Emil Andres, the wheel shot up over a retaining wall and decapitated Everett Spence of Terre Haute, Ind., who was watching the race from a platform on top of his car. Floyd Roberts of Van Nuys, Calif., won the race in record time.

GOES TO BAT FOR GERMAN

Bill Osborne, Training Camp
Owner, Says Schmeling
Will Whip Louis

SPECULATOR, N.Y.—Bill Osborne, who owns everything around here, including the overgrown cottage in which Max Schmeling lives for the moment, says the German is an absolute cinch to knock the daylight out of Joe Louis again.

Osborne has been watching the big fellows come and go ever since Gene Tunney came up in the summer of 1926 to get ready for his first fight with Jack Dempsey.

"I knew," he recalled, "that Gene was going to win the title. Just like I know that Max is going to spread Louis like a rug. They are a lot alike if you study them close. Max has that same confidence that Gene had, and he works just as hard."

"Now, take Max Baer on the other hand. I knew he was scared to death the day he left here to go in and fight Louis. He was scared all the time he was training. Did you know that Jack Dempsey slapped him a half-dozen times in the dressing room before the fight, trying to make him mad and make his knees stop shaking?"

"I told everybody what was going to happen to him, just like I'm telling you now that Schmeling will bring over that right of his and—pop—there will be Louis on the floor."

LOUIS RESUMES

POMPTON LAKES, N.J.—Joe Louis, apparently unconcerned by his "bad press" in recent workouts, resumed ring workouts today in preparation for his date with Max Schmeling at Yankee Stadium, June 22.

Joe had an easy time, yesterday. He took a brisk hike over the countryside in the morning, but after that his chief diversion was target shooting with a .22 calibre rifle.

Rookie Dario Lodigiani clouted a homer with the bases loaded and paced the Philadelphia Athletics to an 8 to 5 win over Detroit Tigers, ending Vernon Kennedy's run of nine straight victories. Jimmy Deshong and Pete Appleton pitched a four-hitter between them and Washington Senators sank St. Louis Browns 6 to 4.

COAST LEAGUE

Pitcher Tony Freitas struck out and won a ball game for the Sacramento Solons to give them a four-game lead in the Coast Baseball League today.

By virtue of Freitas's ability to score a run after he had officially struck out, the Senators defeated the dimming Hollywood Stars, 1 to 0.

Hollywood's Lou Tost fanned Freitas, but the third strike slipped out of catcher Chick Outen's hands and Freitas was off to the races. He beat the peg to first by a step. Then utility infielder Bill James smashed a double, sending Freitas to third, whence he scored on a sacrifice outfield fly by Buster Adams.

After it was all over the official scorer credited Tost with a strikeout, Freitas with a run and Outen with an error.

Score 422 Runs For Four

C. J. Barnett and L. Hutton
Contribute Centuries
Against Australia

NOTTINGHAM (CP)—England's heavy artillery slashed out 422 runs for loss of four wickets in the opening day's play of the first test cricket match against Australia today. The initial contest of the five-game series is being played on Nottinghamshire's ground at Trent Bridge.

C. J. Barnett, Gloucestershire, and Leonard Hutton, Yorkshire, thrilled a crowd that increased to more than 20,000 after lunch by hitting centuries and putting on 219 runs for the first wicket. The former made 126 in a shade less than three hours, his 21-year-old colleague obtaining an even hundred in three hours, 20 minutes.

William Edrich succeeded Barnett but was bowled by W. J. O'Reilly after scoring five runs. Walter Hammond, England's captain, and Edward Paynter, Lancashire, defied the Aussies until the tea hour, making 20 and 7 respectively.

After early morning showers the first of the five-game series was started under an overcast sky when Hammond won the toss, sending Barnett and Hutton to the wickets. There was a slight delay in the afternoon when a hailstorm sent the players scurrying to the pavilion.

MISS TWO CATCHES

England's opening pair were lucky at the start, two catches being missed from Barnett while Hutton played a ball from E. L. McCormick to his wicket but the balls were not disturbed. McCormick's lightning-like deliveries kicked up frequently forcing the batsmen on the defensive.

In compiling his second century against the Australians in test play Barnett gave a brilliant all-round display featured by strong off-drives and cuts. He had hit 18 boundaries when he played forward to one of McCormick's best-length deliveries and had his wickets scattered.

Hutton became the ninth Englishman to score 100 against the Australians in his first test. One the defensive at first, Hutton became more resourceful after reaching the half-century and many of his 14 boundaries came from hits to leg and smashing off-drives. He was bowled by L. O'Brien Fleetwood-Smith.

When the 200 was reached McCormick and Stanley McCabe made the best use of the new ball. No runs were scored for four overs. It was soon after Barnett lost his wicket.

Paynter and 20-year-old Compton were associated after the tea interval being unbeaten at the close. The veteran Lancashire player, after a brief defensive period, scored rapidly to finish with 75. He pulled Frank Ward for the only six of the day. Compton played confidently for 69, most of his runs coming from well-placed drives and leg strokes.

Going to the wicket shortly before the tea interval, Hammond, in his first innings as England's captain, made 26 runs when he was dismissed by Fleetwood-Smith. W. J. Edrich, Middlesex star, made only 5 when he fell a victim to W. J. O'Reilly.

PROGRESSING ON CITY WORK

Bowker Creek Improvement Scheduled to Start Monday

Road filling in the city will continue throughout next week, and work will proceed on the Crescent Road storm sewer, G. M. Irwin, city engineer, reported today before announcing a small gang would start improving Bowker Creek.

The Crescent Road job, in which men are replacing the blocked eight-inch pipes with larger pipe at a better grade to provide relief from flooded basements during the heavy rains, should be completed well within the month, Mr. Irwin stated.

Excellent progress has been made in the street filling, favorable weather having assisted the gangs materially. While a certain amount of inconvenience has been caused by the oiled and sanded roadways, the condition is far less objectionable than it would have been had rain fallen as it has in the last few years.

Work on Bowker Creek will be confined next week to improving the culvert under Foul Bay Road. That project was started last year and will be completed without delay. Later in the year grades may be changed and creek bed cleaned out.

THEFT CHARGE HEARING OPENS

Charles W. Abbott and John A. McRae Arraigned on Entering Court

Hearing of a charge against Charles W. Abbott and John A. McRae of breaking and entering a hotel room and committing theft, opened in the City Police Court this morning.

The case was remanded until tomorrow after completion of the prosecution evidence. Sgt. James Florence and Constable Harry Mercer gave evidence of arresting the two accused when they had seen them between 5 and 6 on the morning of June 5 run out of the entrance to the Wilson Hotel, pursued by two Japanese.

L. Kitagawa, Japanese tenant of a room in the hotel, testified he had seen Abbott in the hotel when he had gone to shave in the early morning and on returning to his room had found his wallet containing $4 missing. Police said they had found two $1 bills on each of the accused when they were searched at headquarters. Constable Mercer testifying he had found $2 under a mat at the hotel entrance, where he had seen Abbott stoop just before he arrested him.

R. C. Lowe is conducting the defence and C. L. Harrison appears for the prosecution.

TOWN TOPICS

A petition, signed by 17 residents of First Street, was received at the City Hall today requesting a sidewalk on that roadway.

Change of $14 and a quantity of theft from her room in a local hotel was reported to city police yesterday by Mrs. A. H. Parry, a Vancouver visitor.

Court Liberty, A.O.E. Juveniles will meet this evening at 7.30 in the Foresters' Hall, Cormorant Street. Part of the business of the evening will be the election of officers. Following the meeting there will be games.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital are reminded that the annual drive for membership dues is being conducted this week in Spencer's store, where it will conclude tomorrow evening.

Between $7 and $8 worth of tobacco and a quantity of order books were stolen from a car owned by John Taggart of the Royal Canadian Tobacco Co. while it was parked on Douglas Street yesterday, a police report stated.

City police today investigated a purse snatching at North Park and Blanshard Streets at 12.15 this morning, when a purse containing between $7 and $10 was stolen from a woman who was walking home with her husband. The thief was reported to have sped down Herald Street after the snatch.

When he pleaded guilty in the City Police Court this morning to a charge of driving to the common danger, Frank Le Poidevin was fined $20. The charge arose out of an accident at Douglas and Johnson Streets when William Kirkland was stated to have been thrown from the accused's car as it turned the corner.

A permit for the construction of a $3,000 five-room house at 601 Gonzales Avenue was issued by the city building inspector's department today to F. Walter. T. Stott and Son are listed as contractors. On Wednesday a permit was issued to Miss D. Nicol for a $2,000 five-room home at 511 Rupert Street. E. Holmes will build the dwelling.

On the grounds there was no visible sign which indicated parking was limited to one hour on the south side of Yates Street, between Broad and Douglas Streets, a man who was summoned for a parking violation was granted suspended sentence in the City Police Court this morning. Three others were fined $2.50 each for similar offences. Two other motorists were each fined $10 for exceeding the 30-mile-an-hour speed limit.

Urges Transport Co-ordination

VANCOUVER (CP)—All forms of transport should be co-ordinated and unfair competition between road and rail eliminated, General Sir Godfrey Rhodes, C.B.E., a native of Victoria and general manager of the Kenya-Uganda Railways, said in an interview here today.

"Railways have to deal with transport of low-priced commodities, therefore it is manifestly unfair to allow road transport to take away their high-rated commodities as it is doing now," he said. "Every form of transport should be co-ordinated and used to its own particular advantage." Sir Godfrey is staying with his mother, Mrs. H. Rhodes, here and plans a visit to England before returning to his home in Nairobi, headquarters of the railway he controls.

Lack Of Road Money Problem

MacPherson Back From Ottawa After Seeking Highway Aid

The problem of finding means to continue British Columbia's highway development program was before the provincial cabinet today following the return yesterday of Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, from Ottawa.

In the federal capital Mr. MacPherson learned the federal assistance toward joint construction projects this year will be limited to the new $600,000 Pacific Highway between Blaine and the Pattullo Bridge, the cost being spread over two years.

This apparently left it up to the province to find the money if its program of road widening and improvement is to be continued this year on an extensive scale. Last year $1,000,000 was spent on construction and the year before $1,500,000, with additional sums for hard surfacing. The Dominion contributed half the cost of construction works and the province paid for the surfacing.

The issue before the government now is that of raising funds itself to carry on the road scheme. All revenue surpluses out of last year's heavy collections have been eaten up by relief costs and while the treasury still has borrowing powers of several millions there is no official intimation of any move to raise funds for this purpose. The treasury has problems in another direction, with a $2,000,000 maturity to meet in July.

NET TEAMS BREAK EVEN

Miss Stammers and Mrs. Moody Win Opening Singles in International Tennis

WIMBLEDON, Eng.—Miss Kay Stammers sent England away to a lead in the Wightman Cup matches with the United States today, defeating Miss Alice Marble, U.S. champion, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Miss Stammers, left-handed player, outmanoeuvred the American woman and scored decisive points with perfect drop shots.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, flashing streaks of her old-time form, defeated Margaret Scriven of Britain, 6-0, 7-5, to square the standing at one-all.

After breezing through the first set in 14 minutes, Mrs. Moody, who never took off her sweater and went to the net just once, won the second after trailing at 3-4. Though Miss Scriven was a gallant retriever, she was outclassed completely and, once Mrs. Moody decided to put on the pressure, never had a chance.

FIVE POINTS OF INSURANCE

Outlined By Seattle Speaker at Underwriters' Luncheon

How his company was beating the recession first by ignoring its existence as far as possible, and secondly by a five-point program which he called "the five golden keys," was told to the Victoria Life Insurance Underwriters' Association at its luncheon today by Hugh S. Bell, general agent in Seattle for the Equitable Life Company of Iowa.

The five points were the development of an optimistic mental attitude, more work in the form of more calls, better prospecting, smarter and more aggressive salesmanship, and persistence.

Speaking of life insurance salesmanship generally, Mr. Bell said the essentials for success were personality, character and knowledge backed by activity.

He brought greetings from the Washington State Underwriters' Association, the Seattle Life Underwriters' Association and the Life Managers' Association of Seattle.

The meeting stood in silent tribute to the late C. C. Ferguson, manager of the Great West Life Company.

GAY ROMANCE AT DOMINION

"Fools For Scandal" Stars Carole Lombard and Fernand Gravet

Hailed as the comedy event of the year, "Fools for Scandal," starring Carole Lombard and Fernand Gravet, will have its opening today at the Dominion Theatre.

A light and gay romance of London and Paris, produced and directed by Hollywood's ace comedy director, Mervyn LeRoy, it is said to reach a new high in entertainment.

No one needs to be told about Miss Lombard. Her recent comedy triumphs, "True Confession" and "Nothing Sacred," speak for themselves. "Fools for Scandal" gives her the opportunity to further her success as a comedienne.

Gravet is the handsome, appealing young Franco-Belgian actor whom LeRoy discovered in Paris last year and brought to Hollywood under personal contract to star with Joan Blondell in the comedy-romance, "The King and the Chorus Girl."

The Les Hit orchestra contributes their grand brand of music, and there's a lavish dance sequence set in an elaborate Paris night-club, to add to the general gaiety of the film.

Others in the capable cast include: Isabel Jeans, Ralph Bellamy, Marie Wilson, Allen Jenkins, Marcia Ralston, Heather Thatcher and Tola Nesmith.

Lavish settings and beautiful costumes are another feature of "Fools for Scandal" and Miss Lombard's gowns are something for the girls to go home and yearn for. The costume ball sequence is said to have some of the most original creatures ever seen on the screen.

Dorothy Lamour White "Goddess"

"Her Jungle Love" at Atlas Today Is Riot of Color

All the glowing, natural beauty and riot of color of the glamorous tropics is brought to the screen for the first time in Paramount's Technicolor production, "Her Jungle Love," which opens today at the Atlas Theatre.

Dorothy Lamour, the original sarong girl of "The Jungle Princess," plays the part of a white "goddess" discovered by Ray Milland and Lynne Overmann, trans-Pacific fliers forced down by a typhoon on a desert island.

A thrilling earthquake provides the daring background for Milland's romance with Miss Lamour, J. Carroll Nash and Dorothy Howe are also included in the star-studded cast.

PLAZA THEATRE
"High Flyers" now at the Plaza was designed especially to intensify the comic antics of Wheeler and Woolsey. Their experiments with a trick flying machine in an amusement concession, in a real plane while trying to salvage a floating package at sea, and their plane crash in land later, are only a starter to the daffy complications that follow. The result is the comedy scream of the year!

Three Lost In Marine Mishap

LONDON (CP-Havas) - Four men lost their lives last night when the tug Ocean Cook, owned by the Gamecock Steam Towing Company, collided with the S.402-ton steamship Port Nicholson of the Commonwealth and Dominion Line and sank off Gravesend dock. Those lost were J. Howard, chief engineer; E. Wright, seaman; G. Lewis, cook, and A. Card, fireman.

SENT TO NEW YORK

Ritz Brothers in Capitol Comedy

The three Ritz Brothers, taking a hilarious, tongue-in-the-cheek poke at the radio broadcasting quests, are scheduled to open tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre in their latest starring comedy, "Kentucky Moonshine."

In this 20th Century-Fox film, the madmen of the movies have added many extra film frenzies to provide merriment.

Interpolated through the plot of "Kentucky Moonshine" is a romance between Tony Martin, popular radio, screen crooner, and Marjorie Weaver, who has come a long way toward stardom since "Second Honeymoon."

COLUMBIA THEATRE
When you play the part of a hero in Western pictures, you can depend upon one thing—you always win your battles, but it is necessary to take a lot of hard knocks while doing so.

Woman Held In U.S. Spy Probe

Wife of German Who Fleed Country Detained As Material Witness

NEW YORK (AP)—Weeping and protesting, Mrs. Maria Griebel was held in $5,000 bail today as a material witness in the federal spy investigation to prevent her departure for Germany.

She is the wife of Dr. Ignatz T. Griebel, who fled to Germany as a stowaway on the liner Bremen May 10 while under subpoena as a government witness.

The court was informed Griebel is now in Germany and does not intend to return.

Assistant United States Attorney Lester C. Dunigan told Federal Judge Vincent L. Liebel that Mrs. Griebel's testimony is material and necessary to the trial which the government feels certain will result from the investigation.

The only inkling of possible widespread new ramifications of the case involving alleged theft of highly confidential army aircraft and coastal defence secrets came from the fact federal agents carried a bundle of newly-seized documents into the grand jury chamber. It was not disclosed whether the documents implicated other suspects in the government's tightening net.

Four others, including an unidentified man were brought before the grand jury to tell what they knew of the espionage syndicate which came to light when G-men arrested Johann Hofmann, red-haired manicurist on the German liner Europa. The government accused Miss Hofmann of acting as "pay-off" agent for the ring.

The other witnesses yesterday were Wilhelm Behnke, Nazi "political fuhrer" of the S.S. Bremen's crew, held under $15,000 bail as a material witness; Walter Otto, steward on the Bremen, and Johann Hart, ship's baker.

Navy For China Balked By U.S.

Documents Show Attempt to Build Sea Power Vetoed in 1922

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department disclosed today through publication of foreign relations volumes for 1922 that the United States had squelched an attempt by China 16 years ago to build a modern navy.

The document disclosed the United States not only opposed China's intentions, but also induced Japan, Great Britain, France and Italy to oppose them. It also brought pressure on the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company not to fulfill a shipbuilding contract with China.

The reason given by United States diplomats was that "in China there is at the present time no central government of sufficient strength and stability really to rule the whole of the country, and that some of the influential local authorities, maintaining armies for their own ends, are indulging in strife, these contending influences being subject to incessant vicissitudes."

The United States government also did not want to see laborers of the Washington Disarmament Conference, which had just ended, injured in any way.

Smoke Pall Over Wide North Area

EDMONTON (CP)—The smoke pall from clearing and forest fires in the north covered the country from the Yukon to Edmonton over a wide area, Pilot Ernie Kubick of United Air Transport, who arrived here last night from Fort St. John, reported today. Fires appeared worst in the northwest, Kubick said.

Burglars Jump Two Stories

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police today were searching for two burglars who last night leaped two stories from an upstairs window in the home of W. H. Cotter.

The men made their escape while Miss F. Lutz, a maid who interrupted them as they were ransacking an upstairs room, was calling police. No loot was taken.

Scientists Travel

LONDON (CP)—A party of 150 scientists and research workers left Euston station today en route to Canada to attend special conferences in connection with the 57th annual meeting of the British Society of the Chemical Industry in Ottawa, Montreal and other Canadian centres from June 17 to July 1.

Man Sent Back To Prison In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Thomas McCall, 39, is serving five years. He was convicted of a criminal attack on Miss Virginia Austin, a New York doll designer, in a hotel in 1936. He has stoutly maintained he was innocent.

Police investigators reported last Monday that Robert Nixon, an 18-year-old negro accused of slaying five women, had confessed the attack for which McCall was sentenced.

Yesterday they brought McCall to criminal court to hear Nixon clear his name, but Nixon repudiated his confession. McCall, his face drawn and fists clenched to whiteness, was taken back to prison.

U.S. Wheat Crop Will Be Big One

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States agricultural department said today June 1 conditions indicated a winter wheat production of 760,623,000 bushels, based on an average yield of 10 bushels an acre.

Production was 685,102,000 bushels last year, and the 10-year average, 1927-36, was 546,396,000. The largest crop heretofore was 825,396,000 bushels in 1931.

The department said it was too early to forecast spring wheat production accurately, but March acreage intentions and June 1 conditions indicated a crop of between 260,000,000 and 285,000,000 bushels. Production was 188,991,000 bushels last year, and the 10-year average, 206,549,000.

Combining the estimates for winter and spring wheat, the department said a total wheat crop of from 1,020,623,000 to 1,035,623,000 bushels was indicated this year. Production was 873,993,000 last year and the 10-year average 732,900,000.

War Supplies Freely Ordered

OTTAWA (CP)—The Department of National Defence had nothing to do, directly or indirectly, with any orders for war material which may be placed with Canadian industries by the British Government, Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Minister of Defence, told the House of Commons today. The minister was answering a question from J. S. Woods, C.C.F. leader.

Vancouverites On Long Tour

VANCOUVER (CP)—Forty-six members of the Vancouver Board of Trade today were Alberta-bound on their 20th annual "goodwill" tour. They left here last night by train.

The party will visit Alberta and British Columbia centres on their eight-day trip. Stops will be made at Revelstoke, Golden, Banff, Calgary, Edmonton and Jasper.

Saskatchewan Bonds Higher

TORONTO (CP)—Saskatchewan bonds advanced 2 to 4 points in the Toronto market today on the election news from that province. In recent weeks quotations had weakened.

The strongest note in the western oil share market today was also attributed by some brokers to "diminishing fear" of further regimentation of the oil industry.

Other western issues tightened up slightly today, possibly in sympathy with the Saskatchewan. The Manitoba 4 1/2 51s were bid $6.50 against $6 on Wednesday, and the British Columbia 4 1/2 53s were bid $4.75 against $4.50.

London Market

LONDON (AP)—Trading in stocks was on a fairly active scale today and the market closed steady. The London 4 1/2 51s were bid $6.50 against $6 on Wednesday, and the British Columbia 4 1/2 53s were bid $4.75 against $4.50.

Mines and Steels Display Strength

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto market pushed along on the upward trail today with mines and steels displaying the greatest energy. Western oils and other industrial groups leaned to the up side. Volume bettered the 800,000-share mark.

Noranda advanced 2 1/2, Nickel Bay also improved about 2, Nickel added a point and Smelters a fraction. Pend-Oreille, Nor Metals and Falconbridge gained ground.

Dome sold at a new high price. Lake Shore firmed a point and McIntyre gained a fraction.

National Steel Car firmed about a point. Strong spots in the interlisted group included Brazilian and Walkers common.

Western oils picked up of moderate volume. Calgary-Edmonton, Home and Okalta were up 5 to 10 cents, and smaller gains came out for Brown, Mercury, Nordon and Pacalta.

OUT OUR WAY—By Williams

Tame Porcupines

Several years ago, while I was at a camp near Buffalo, N.Y., I met a young man who had made friends with two porcupines. He kept them in a wire pen, but often took them out and held them in his hands or let them rest on his shoulders.

We might suppose that a person would be afraid of the quill-covered animals, but the quills do not come out and stick in the flesh when they are lying flat and touched with care.

A porcupine eats the bark from tree limbs.

Writing in The Canadian Magazine Theodore Roberts tells of another tame porcupine. "A friend of mine," he says, "had a tame porcupine. At last it became so chummy that it insisted on sharing my friend's bed, and was given to a zoo."

Another porcupine is described in a letter from a reader of our column.

"I am the owner of the Smoky Lady," writes A. Dean Lindsay of Ocilla, Ga. "I took her to the school at Axton, Ga., and several hundred pupils mailed and played with her to their hearts' content. She delights to have content. She makes a fuss over her, and even though she does have thousands of sharp quills on her, she can be careful. I am enclosing a couple of the quills so you can see how sharp they are. Look at them through a powerful glass and notice the hundreds of barbs."

"I am a traveling man, and Smoky Lady is my pet and companion. She goes where I go. She eats bread, sweet potatoes, fruit and carrots. She lives in a box 18 by 20 by 24 inches, and is very fond of her home. I do not feed her Irish potatoes because they will 'poison' a porcupine in five days' time."

"Porcupines seldom drink water, and sometimes go more than five months without a drink. It has been two and a half months since Smoky Lady took a drink. When she does take water, it is only an ounce or two at a time. She weighs less than 16 pounds."

Mr. Lindsay sent me a picture of himself with Smoky Lady perched on his right shoulder. He caught her several years ago.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We have been married 10 years and have two children. I have been so tired, sick and nervous and so fed up with the everlasting monotony of cooking, washing dishes and baby bottles and dollar-pinching that I have wished I could do, and end it all. On St. Valentine's morning I was especially miserable. Irritable with the children and my always quiet husband. And when he went to work and I had got the oldest child off to school, I felt that life was so cheerless and unhappy that it wasn't worth while. Then the mailman came with a valentine, a letter from my silent, inarticulate husband, in which he wrote me all the things he could never find words to say. Why, he loves me, Miss Dix! He thinks I am beautiful in spite of tired lines in my face and broken nails on my fingers. He appreciates how hard things have been for me and his only goal is to reach a place where he can give me all the good things of life. How different that letter made the world look to me! Life is beautiful! The children are sweet! He is worth any sacrifice. Perhaps I am a fool that a few written words should mean so much to me, but they have made me happy, happy. Maybe there are other fools like me.

D.R.M.

Answer: Indeed, there are, my dear. There are just as many fools like that as there are women in the world, and it is a pity that their husbands don't realize that just a few words can make marriage worth while to them.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My father died when I was a small child, leaving my mother with two children. Not being able to support both of us, she sent me to my aunt and uncle, with whom I have lived happily for the last 15 years. My mother never showed me any affection or did anything for me during all the time I was growing up, but now she wants me to come and live with her. I refused. I hardly know her and can't talk frankly to her. I am nervous and unhappy with her. Her friends are strangers to me and mine are to her. Besides, two years ago my aunt died, and since then I have been keeping house for my uncle, who has been a father to me and done everything for me. Should I leave him and go to my mother?

DOROTHY.

Answer—I think not. I think your duty is to the kind uncle who has not only supported you all these years but has also given you the affection and care that your mother denied you. He needs you now, and you will be utterly lacking in gratitude if you do not stay with him and do all that you can to make him comfortable and happy. I haven't much sympathy with this Enoch Arden sort of parents who leave their children to the mercy of strangers and then pop up when their offspring are old enough to work and support them.

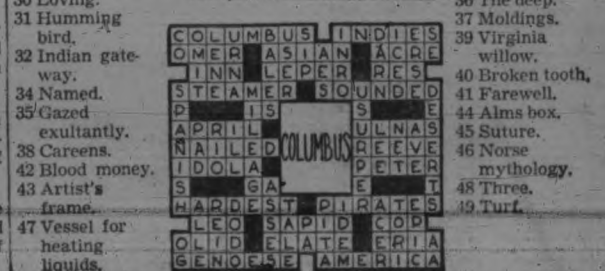

DOROTHY DIX.

Five Drowned In Oregon Bay

Mother and Four Children
Lost When Fishing Boat
Swamped

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—A young mother and four children, the oldest nine, were drowned yesterday when their 14-foot fishing boat swamped 300 feet from shore in turbulent Winchester Bay.

The dead: Mrs. Edna Huntsman, 27, Burnside, Ore.; Elvin Huntsman, 9, Virginia, Huntsman, 8, Coda, Huntsman, 2, and Joyce Pentico, 4, Cottage Grove.

Rescued were: Coda M. Pentico, father of Joyce, his two daughters, Verna L. and Evelyn, and J. A. Huntsman, sole survivor of his family.

The two families, who had vacationed at Winchester Bay for a number of seasons, were returning in the boat from a camping trip to a cove a few miles down the coast when the tragedy occurred.

With nine persons aboard, the little craft was overloaded, investigators said.

SIX LOST IN AIR CRASH

Rescue Party Brings Mutilated Bodies Out of African Jungle

EVANGELINA, South Africa (CP-Havas)—A special committee left here today to investigate the crash of a Royal Air Force plane north of the Limpopo River in which six lost their lives.

An air force tender left at dawn to bring the bodies out of the jungle in which they fell last Monday. The rescue party that finally reached the wreck yesterday and found the badly mutilated bodies of the six men reached their goal after overcoming great difficulties in penetrating the bush. At one point they ran out of food and water, but further supplies were dropped by parachute from planes.

The victims were Lieut. R. Moseby, Capt. R. Boxhall and Pte. R. Pring, members of R.A.F. boxing team who were en route from Rhodesia to a South African boxing tournament at Pretoria; their trainer, M. P. Peters; Capt. A. C. Koch, 25-year-old pilot, and Sergt. M. P. Leroux, 25, of the South African Flying Corps.

Sightseers Fill Roads to Mandalay

Thousands of thrill-seeking New Yorkers used their Decoration Day week-end to visit the wreck of the excursion steamer Mandalay, pictured above as it lay in 40 feet of water in New York Bay. Although the boat was sliced in two in a collision with the Bermuda-bound Ss. Acadia and quickly sank, seamanship of the two captains saved the 273 passengers and crew of 47. Owners of small boats reaped a harvest ferrying sightseers and many sold fragments of the sunken ship for souvenirs.

Fish Industry Loses Markets

Newfoundland Competition Responsible For Nova Scotia Difficulties

OTTAWA (CP)—Newfoundland competition has been largely responsible for difficulties of the Lunenburg, N.S., fishery industry, it was said today in report on markets for dried and pickled fish, tabled in the House of Commons by Hon. J. E. Michaud, Minister of Fisheries.

The investigation was made by O. F. MacKenzie, president of the Halifax Fisheries Limited, and F. Homer Zwicker of Zwicker and Company, Lunenburg. They were named by order-in-council last January 5 to investigate and report on conditions in the markets for Canadian dried and pickled fish products in the United States, Puerto Rico, Central and South America and the West Indies. They were also asked to recommend steps to aid re-establishment of the Canadian industry.

The investigators submitted separate reports.

The Newfoundland fishing industry is in a bad condition. A gradual loss of European business caused the industry to invade the markets formerly held by Canada.

"To undertake to market any considerable increased production and, assuming that Newfoundland's conditions remain as they are and further assuming that we cannot enjoy distinctive benefits of any trade treaties, it would be necessary for us to ask the government for an export bounty sufficiently large to enable us to undersell Newfoundland."

There was a market for 150,000 to 250,000 quintals of codfish annually.

Ocean freight rates have been a tremendous handicap to the industry, Mr. MacKenzie said. European producers ship to the West Indies and to South America at lower rates than Canadians.

"In this connection, the Canadian National Steamships has consistently maintained a more unsympathetic attitude towards fish than any other steamship line carrying this commodity from Canada."

WOULD REMOVE C.N.R. CONTROL

Maine Senate Candidate Complains Portland Facilities Not Used

SOUTH PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—Hiram S. Cole accused the Canadian Government today, in a letter he said he had written to Governor Lewis O. Barrows, of refusing to use Portland waterfront property it owns and dominates.

Cole, candidate for a Republican state senate nomination, said he had recommended to the governor legislative action next year "to remove from control of our Maine facilities those who refuse to use them." If elected, he added, he would take the initiative.

The Canadian Government, Cole said, owns and controls the extensive Grand Trunk docks and huge grain elevators in Portland. The elevators, once repository for millions of tons of grain shipped from Canada, have been idle since 1927.

POLICY EXPLAINED—OTTAWA (CP)—Lack of sufficient traffic (and a general policy of the Canadian Government to use Canadian ports as much as possible account for idleness of waterfront property owned by the Canadian National Railways at Portland, Me., government sources indicated today.

It was explained the waterfront properties referred to by Hiram S. Cole, candidate for the Republican state senate nomination in Maine, and which he charged the Canadian Government refused to use, were owned by the C.N.R. and formed part of the terminal of the line running from Montreal. The C.N.R. is a government railway.

The band enlivened the march, falling out at Craigflower Bridge and rejoining the platoons on Lampson Street.

Large crowds were attracted to the Esquimalt streets on the route and the smart turn-out of the navy men drew favorable comment.

There were eleven platoons altogether, five of which were from H.M.S. Naden, Esquimalt barracks; three from H.M.C.S. Fraser and three from H.M.C.S. St. Laurent.

It marked the first time this year that all available men at the coast station had been mustered for the route march.
